Mennonite Life

JUNE 1997
VOL. 52 / NO. 2

In this issue

In this issue, led off by our history section, we focus once again on the Anabaptist martyr theme. Marlin Adrian, an independent scholar in Danville, Virginia, examines the poignant body of martyr literature left by women in the Martyrs Mirror, and their use of religious paradigms to create meaning out of their experiences.

The next two articles demonstrate that the Anabaptist martyrs also have a place outside of Mennonite culture. The translated selection of a Dutch biography of Dirk Willems by C. van Rijswijk places the Dirk Willems story in a non-Mennonite context of the struggle for political freedom. Mary Sprunger reminds us that Jan Luyken, the Mennonite artist whose famous etchings are found in the Martyrs Mirror, also created illustrations for secular works which touched on the martyr theme and placed the martyrs in a larger, non-Anabaptist story.

In our arts section, we find the Luyken etchings inspiring a contemporary response. Singing at the Fire is a presentation designed and commissioned by the 1997 C. Henry Smith Peace Lecturer, Shirley Sprunger King, professor of music at Bethel College. The music for organ was composed by Brent Weaver, based on poems by Sarah Klassen, which were in turn triggered by Luyken martyr etchings. Audiences at six Mennonite colleges in North America witnessed this unique artistic production this spring in the 22nd annual C. Henry Smith Peace Lectureship.

David P. Sudermann's poem Ash Wednesday Elegy 1995 reminds us that the martyr theme finds echoes not just in the sixteenth century but also in the twentieth.

Our current issues section offers reflections on the Middle East and international politics from a Mennonite perspective. Terry Rempel is a 1990 graduate of Bethel College and received an M.A. in Middle East Politics from Exeter University in England. He has served with Christian Peacemaker Teams in the Middle East and lives in Tofield, Alberta.

Also included in this issue is our annual Mennonite Bibliography, a Mennonite Life tradition that goes back to 1946.

Contents

History

Arts

Current Issues

The Women of the Martyrs' Mirror: Paradigms in Anabaptist/ Mennonite Mythology

Marlin Adrian

"For she is the brightness of the everlasting light, the unspotted mirror of the power of God." (Wisdom 7:26)

Historically, the role of women has been understated, if not simply ignored, by those who have chronicled the history of the world's religious traditions. A glaring exception to this failing is found in the field of martyrologies. Peter Brown has noted that, "In the legacy of courage, at least, men and women were remembered as equal within the Christian Church."[1]

The martyrology which has profoundly influenced Anabaptist thinking, Thieleman J. van Braght's The Bloody Theater or Martyrs Mirror of the Defenseless Christians, gives witness to this legacy. The women found within its pages are numerous and prominent. Mennonite historian Robert Friedmann observes that the Martyrs' Mirror "exerts its immense spiritual influence by presenting models of Christian life."[2] The paradigm of the martyr within the Anabaptist tradition grows out of the contemplation of these narratives about human beings, called by Brown "the very special dead."

The paradigm of the martyr, as is the way with symbols and paradigms, displays multivocality, that is, it gathers around itself many, sometimes contradictory meanings. Phenomenological studies of symbol, myth and ritual give us the latitude to explore the multitude of meanings found in martyr narratives. In order to apply these methods, we must first affirm that the martyr narratives of the Martyrs' Mirror are mythological.

Let us define what we mean by "myth." It has been written that the

Ursel van Essen, Maastricht, 1570

"best short definition of a myth is that it is a true story."[3] It has also been said that "myths are like histories in that they are stories about the human past, stories that are considered significant and true."[4] But if a myth is a true story about the past whose meaning is remembered in the present, how do myths differ from histories?

Myths can be distinguished from histories by their origin. A myth is not the creation and possession of an individual, it is a story that is sacred to and shared by a group of people. A community creates myths over time. A myth becomes a myth because it is perceived as such by the community that tells and hears it. As members of the community retell the myth, they reinterpret the myth, and by doing so, reinterpret the identity of the community. Myths therefore facilitate "reflexivity" in the life of the community.

Myths are also set apart by their context. A myth exists within the context of a body of myths. When a myth stands alone, it has somehow been removed from its original position within a corpus of literature. For example, the martyr narratives in the Martyrs' Mirror not only form such a body of myths, they exist in the context of the stories of martyrs from the beginning of Christianity up until the present day.

Myths are also notable for the scope of their content. Myths are not only stories about human beings, they also consider humanity's "ultimate sources of existence." Martyr narratives are not merely histories of the deaths of human beings, they are complex narratives which "face death and find meaning in the encounter." Histories may offer social, historical, psychological, or philosophical explanations for historical phenomena. Myths, however, find meaning for historical events in a cosmic arena by employing the services of symbols and metaphors. Because symbols and metaphors are multivalent, myths provide paradigms "on which a number of meanings may be modeled."[5]

Finally, myths are intimately related to rituals. In the past there has been disagreement as to whether myth precedes or follows ritual, but "few mythographers will deny the 'intricate interdependence,' the "'interpenetration' between ritual and myth." We must be mindful of the "ritual context of mythology and the mythological context of ritual."[6]

Although symbols, myths and rituals are clearly related to the dynamics of specific cultures, the paradigms they present are not limited to those particular incarnations. Mircea Eliade pointed our attention to the universality of certain religious paradigms. The paradigm of the martyr is not only the root paradigm of Anabaptism and the root paradigm of Christianity, it also bears within it key characteristics of universal archetypes found in cultures throughout the world. The power of these martyr narratives to move us lies in their ability to tap into these universal archetypes.

Women martyrs, as depicted in the Martyrs' Mirror, embody universal archetypes. I would like to examine three of these, identified by Eliade as the "difficult passage," the "god who binds," and the "cosmic tree" or "pillar of the world."

Women martyrs, as depicted in the Martyr's Mirror, embody universal archetypes.

The Difficult Passage

One way to understand narratives of martyrdom is by seeing them as stories about a ritual process, a rite of passage, in which the martyr is not only transported from one place to another (earth to heaven), but transformed from one state of being or

Anneken Hendriks, Amsterdam, 1571

plane of existence to a higher one. Arnold van Gennep set the parameters of our discussion of rites of passage. He observed three phases in the crossing of thresholds: separation, transition, and reintegration.[7]

The martyr's death is a threshold experience, in which she traverses that narrow bridge, the razor's edge, between this life and the next. This is why, in a rite of passage, initiands are surrounded by symbols of birth as well as death. The passage of martyrdom is not a journey of death. It is the one and only true path into eternal life.

This critical metaphor of martyrdom as a passage to life is key to the self understanding of Anabaptist martyrs. Menno Simons focuses on this paradigm in his work "The Cross of the Saints".

> (The martyrs are) pressed into the true and promised land and into eternal glory through this lonely wilderness, through this narrow, shameful, and bloody way of all miseries and crosses and sufferings.
>
> Yes, this is and remains the only strait and narrow way and door through which we must enter and pass, and through no other way may we seek to enter with the Saints into eternal life.[8]

Traversing this narrow passage in order to join the saints "under the altar," is a recurring apocalyptic theme in the martyr narratives. Anna of Rotterdam, in a testament left for her son, Isaiah, in 1539, writes, "I go today the way of the prophets, apostles and martyrs, and drink of the cup of which they all have drank."

> This way was trodden by the dead under the altar, who cry, saying: Lord, Almighty God, when wilt Thou avenge the blood that has been shed? White robes were given unto them, and it was said to them; Wait yet for a little season, until the number of your brethren that are yet to be killed for the testimony of Jesus, be fulfilled.[9]

The women of the Martyrs' Mirror not only repeat this metaphor, they add a dimension of their own. Women embody this passage between death and life in a very special way. In many cultures blood symbolizes both life and death. For males this is external, related to the hunt, where the death of an animal provides life for the community, or to circumcision, where wounding also results from an outside action. For women this reality is internalized. Menstrual blood often represents death, because it indicates an absence of fetal life, while the blood evident in the birth process demonstrates the connection between blood and life.

The image of the narrow way occupies the center of Janneken Munstdorp's testament to her newborn daughter. The authorities apprehended Janneken in April of 1573 at Antwerp, along with her husband and three other women. The authorities executed her husband in September, but delayed the death of the women because of Janneken's pregnancy.

Married only six months before her arrest, Janneken bore her first and only child in a prison cell less than a month after her husband's execution. The child was a daughter and Janneken named the child after herself. The four women were burned at the stake in October. The testament written to her newborn daughter stands as Janneken's legacy.

Janneken recalls having "borne you under my heart with great sorrow for nine months." She notes that, having delivered her daughter, now she is to be "delivered up to death." She worries that her daughter will not understand why her parents were so cruelly executed, and that she will be "ashamed to confess" them "before the world." She explains to young Janneken that martyrdom "is the way which the prophets and the apostles went, and the narrow way which leads into eternal life, for there shall no other way be found by which to be saved." She reminds her that Jesus himself "went before us in this way of reproach, and left us an example, that we should follow His steps; for, for His sake all must be forsaken, father, mother, sister, brother, husband, child, yea, one's own life."[10]

In the context of Janneken's imprisonment, recent birth experience, and impending death, the image of the "narrow way" evokes deep and complex meanings. The delivery of her child stands as a shadow of her own delivery to death.

> I must now pass through this narrow way which the prophets and martyrs of Christ passed through, and many thousands who put off the mortal clothing, who died here for Christ, and now they wait under the altar till their number shall be fulfilled, of which number your dear father is one. And I am now on the point of following him, for I am delivered up to death.[11]

The narrow way that leads to life becomes, for the martyr, a birth canal through which she must pass in order to end one existence and begin another.

The God Who Binds

Janneken closes her letter by wishing for her daughter "the crucified, bleeding, naked, despised, rejected and slain Jesus Christ for your bridegroom."[12] The anticipated "post-liminal" state of women martyrs is often described in the Martyrs' Mirror

A myth is... a story that is sacred to and shared by a group of people.

One way to understand narratives of martyrdom is by seeing them as stories about a ritual process, a rite of passage, in which the martyr is not only transported from one place to another (earth to heaven), but transformed from one state of being or plane of existence to a higher one.

as that of a "bride." Martyr narratives consistently maintain the innocence, both legal and moral, of those who die for their faith. Women martyrs contribute an additional element of sexual innocence to the paradigm of the martyr, befitting their roles as brides of Christ.

Eliade writes at length of "the god who binds," a sovereign deity found in the mythologies of many cultures, who, often through magic, imprisons mortals. This archetype appears in the symbolism of knots, ropes, chains and other shackles. Eliade emphasizes the binding by God as punishment for transgressions, but ignores the positive image of a god who binds those who follow him to himself. It is this metaphor which is prominent in martyr narratives, as the "bonds of God" stand in stark contrast to the bonds endured in this world at the hands of evil persons.

In 1595, Aeltgen Baten, an "aged woman," and Maeyken Wouters, a young woman of about twenty-four years of age, were apprehended by "trappers" in their home community of Sonhoven. The authorities charged them with the crime of being baptized as adults and they were imprisoned for ten weeks. During their incarceration, these women developed a bond of love and mutual support so strong that it was believed that Maeyken "would gladly have borne in her own body, if it had been possible to do so, all the hardships which her dear, old sister suffered."[13]

Maeyken, however, faced temptations which her companion did not. The bishop's chaplain at one point came to the young woman with a container of wine, hoping that he could overcome her resistance. His subtle persuasiveness proved ineffectual, and finally he "got down upon his knees, and with folded hands begged her to recant and to believe the Romish church." Maeyken remained faithful, and "repelled the devil's deceit, so that the tempter went away."

Maeyken resisted yet another attempt, this by a man from her village. Hearing of her impending death, "his soul was set on fire, and the matter excited his carnal sympathy," he went to visit her in prison. Maeyken replied to his entreaties, "My dear friend, would you advise me this, that I should forsake God and become a child of the devil?" When he pointed out that she would then have to die, she replied, "I should rather have this come to pass with us, than enjoy the light of day." He left the prison in tears.

In a letter written in prison, Maeyken emphasized the image of bride and bridegroom to show that her relationship to Christ went beyond even the bond between mother and child. She wrote: "My dear father and mother, think not that my Bridegroom will forsake me; think what He has said: 'Though a mother should forsake her child, yet will I never forsake mine elect, whom my heavenly Father has given me.' Hence if it is His pleasure, I shall soon be delivered." She implored her parents not to attempt to secure her release with "temporal wealth," because that would "deprive our Bridegroom of His honor," by indicating a lack of belief "that He will deliver me."[14]

On the way to the place of execution, the women began to sing and praise God, but their mouths were gagged by their guards. And so, "they were thus, as dumb lambs, led to the slaughter and death." Their escort took them to Meuse Bridge and what took place there is pieced together from "various reports circulating among the common people."

> When they arrived at the place appointed, the executioner began to bind them, but they had to keep silent, until the executioner loosed the cloth that was before their mouths, and tied it over their eyes. Then Aeltgen first said: "O Lord, this is a beautiful city indeed; would that it repented with Nineveh"; and commending herself to God, the executioner forthwith cast her from the bridge down into the water and she was instantly drowned.[15]

The executioner then also released Maeyken's mouth, and she requested that he allow her to pray to God. The executioner replied that it would be better if she were to pray to the lords the magistrates, and believe in the Church of Rome, because that would save her life. Maeyken responded that she had never done anything wrong to the magistrates and therefore did not need to worship them. The executioner cast her down from the bridge immediately. However, "she did not sink instantly as Aeltgen, but with blooming cheeks she drifted upon the water for a long time, until, it is said, she had reached the lower side of the city."[16] This image of Maeyken, as she is carried on the flowing river, provides a powerful reminder of the inextricable link between death and birth. The river is her grave, but it stands, more powerfully, as the symbol of her final birth passage.

The Cosmic Tree or Pillar of the World

One of the most prominent paradigms in the world's mythologies

Maeyken Wens' sons search for tongue screw, Antwerp, 1573 is the "Cosmic Tree" or "Pillar of the World." This paradigm is part of a widespread symbolism of the center. The Cosmic Tree stands at the center of the universe, connecting three cosmic regions, heaven, earth, and the underworld. When this tree or pillar exists at the center, communication between heaven and earth becomes possible. A person may even travel from one realm to another, as in the case of Jacob's dream at Bethel, where he observed beings walking up and down a ladder stretched between earth and heaven.

For Christians the cross represents the Cosmic Tree planted on Golgotha, at the center of the world. It was here, according to the foundation myth of Christianity, that Christ decisively breached the barrier between heaven and earth, clearly indicated by the parting of the veil guarding the holy of holies in the temple. Considering the close association of the martyrs with Christ, it is not surprising that images of the Cosmic Tree and Pillar of the World appear in illustrations of their sufferings and deaths.

Anneken van den Hove,

Brussels, 1597

Ursel van Essen was apprehended in Maestricht at about one o'clock on a morning in 1569 or early 1570. Her captors recognized a quality in Ursel which caused them to single her out, for "though weak, according to the flesh," she "was not the most timid."[17] After Ursel had suffered the rack twice, her tormentors tied her hands together, drew her up, cut open her chemise with a knife baring her back, and beat her with rods. This procedure was repeated once more that same day.[18] Ursel's courage and endurance amazed those who knew her, for she had a reputation for being "tender of body." Friends recalled that, before her imprisonment, she had to wear her stockings inside out, because she could not bear the seams against her skin.

In this illustration, we see Ursel suspended, her feet well off the floor, her dress torn open at the back ready to receive the blows from her tormentor. One is struck with how small and frail her body appears, aligned as it is with the massive pillar which not only holds her body but supports the roof of the torture chamber. The pillar, nearly at one with her body, stands in contrast to the steeples of the cathedrals and churches clearly visible through the doorway.

Betrayed by her neighbor at Amsterdam in 1571, Anneken Heyndricks suffered an unusual death. Her executioners lashed her to a ladder before casting her into the fire. The artist catches her as she is being lifted on the way to landing face down in the flames. Anneken looks toward heaven with her hands clasped in an attitude of prayer. Immediately behind her looms a large church tower.

Maeyken Wens left behind several children, two of whom attended her execution. The authorities ordered that the mouths of the women be "screwed shut," as part of their sentence. The eldest son of Maeyken Wens, fifteen-year-old Adriaen, stood holding his youngest brother Hans, only three years old, on a bench not far from the stakes erected, in order to watch his mother's execution. When they brought his mother out and tied her to the stake, Adriaen fainted, and only after the execution did he regain consciousness. He immediately went to the place where his mother had been burnt, and hunted in the ashes for the screw with which her tongue had been screwed fast.

It is this poignant image, Adriaen searching through the ashes while his young brother innocently looks on, that we find in Martyrs' Mirror. For a moment, however, let us ignore the boys. To the right of the boys stand the charred remains of the stakes to which the martyrs were bound. Chains and manacles still hanging from them, they point skyward, in opposition to steeples adorned with crosses on the left side of the picture.

Anneken van den Hove, a servant girl apprehended at Brussels in the winter of 1594 through the betrayal of a local pastor, remained imprisoned for two years and seven months, until July 9, 1597. At that time, Jesuits first offered her freedom if she would recant, and then offered her six more months to consider whether she would abandon her heretical beliefs. She refused both proposals, saying that "she desired neither day nor time,...for she longed to get to the place where she might offer up unto the Lord a sacrifice acceptable unto Him."[19]

The Justice of the court and some Jesuits accompanied Anneken to a place one-half mile from the city of Brussels, where a "pit or grave" was dug. She "fearlessly undressed herself" and was placed into the pit. After her lower limbs had been covered with dirt, the Jesuits asked her if she would recant. She refused, explaining that she was glad that the time of her departure was so near at hand.

They continued to throw earth into the hole around Anneken's body until she was buried up to her neck. They begged, threatened, and promised in the hope that she would give in and renounce her faith. In the face of her defiance, they covered her head. They then stamped their feet on the earth, in order that she would die sooner. Anneken, it is said, so loved Jesus "that she followed Him not only to the marriage at Cana, but also...to the gallows-hill."[20]

The church steeples of Brussels appear clearly even at a distance of one-half mile. However, here the martyr offers no pillar, ladder, or stake to indicate the connection between heaven and earth. We see Anneken's head looking small and insignificant in the midst of her accusers. Here the tree appears in its beginning stage, as a seed planted on Golgotha's hill.

Conclusion

In their identification with these universal archetypes, the women of the Martyrs' Mirror stand as hierophanies. Peter Brown begins his book The Cult of the Saints with: "This book is about the joining of Heaven and Earth, and the role, in this joining, of dead human beings."[21] The martyrs whose stories are recorded in the Martyrs' Mirror tell us again the age-old story of human beings, who because of their remarkable lives and deaths, represent a joining of heaven and earth. Within their bruised and bleeding bodies we witness a meeting of heaven and earth, as the sacred, for all too brief an instant, invades the realm of the profane.

Endnotes

1. Peter Brown, The Body and Society (Columbia University Press, 1988), 142.
2. Robert Friedmann, Mennonite Piety Through the Centuries (The Mennonite Historical Society, 1949), 164.
3. Wendy Doniger O'Flaherty, Other Peoples' Myths (Macmillan, 1988), 31.
4. Christopher Vecsey, Imagine Ourselves Richly (HarperCollins, 1991), 27.
5. O'Flaherty, 31.
6. Vecsey, 23.
7. The Rites of Passage (University of Chicago Press, 1966), 21.
8. The Complete Writings of Menno Simons (Herald Press, 1974), 595.
9. MM, 453
10. MM, 985.
11. MM, 985-6.
12. MM, 987.
13. MM, 1091.
14. MM, 1092.
15. Ibid.
16. Ibid.
17. MM, 842.
18. Ibid.
19. MM, 1093.
20. Ibid.
21. Peter Brown, The Cult of the Saints (The University of Chicago Press, 1981), 1.

Encountering Freedom

C. van Rijswijk

translated by William Keeney

introduction by
James C. Juhnke

Introduction

The story of Dirk Willems, the Dutch Anabaptist martyr of 1569 who rescued his pursuer from icy waters, is remembered and celebrated outside of Anabaptist-Mennonite circles. Dirk is honored in his home village of Asperen with a street that bears his name—"Dirk Willemszstraat." Dirk's story appears in religious martyr books and in secular histories of the Dutch struggle for independence from Spain. The church tower where Dirk was imprisoned before his death is still standing in Asperen and may be visited by tourists.

In 1979 a fictionalized biography of Dirk Willems written by C. van Rijswijk was published, Hij gaf Zijn leven [He Gave His Life]. In 1993 the same book was reprinted with a new title, De vrijheid tegemoet [Encountering Freedom], by Boekhandel van Wijngaarden in Barneveld. This translated excerpt comes from the final pages of that book, 43-54. It begins with Dirk in prison before his escape.

C. van Rijswijk is a teacher and school director in Barneveld, a town on the Veluwe, an area of sands and forests in the mid-east of the Netherlands. He has written many stories on biblical themes for children.

Each retelling of the story has its own view of Dirk's motives for rescuing his enemy. John Lothrop Motley, a nineteenth century historian, wrote in The Rise of the Dutch Republic (1858, vol. 2, p. 242) that Dirk was "instinctively obeying the dictates of a generous nature." Van Rijswijk writes from a Reformed Church perspective, and emphasizes Dirk's biblical and spiritual motives. Mennonite readers who are familiar with the account in the Martyrs' Mirror will note a number of differences in detail. In Van Rijswijk's account, for example, Dirk is beheaded rather than burned at the stake, and his martyrdom strengthens the Reformed, rather than the Anabaptist, movement. The book De vrijheid tegemoet includes a number of illustrations which suggest a context for the rescue somewhat different from the famous etching by Jan Luykens in the Martyrs' Mirror.

This translation was a collaborative effort. William Keeney, retired college teacher and administrator of Bluffton, Ohio, did the original translation; Joanne Juhnke, reference librarian at St. Mary's College in Maryland, cast the text into idiomatic English. The translation is printed with the permission of the author and publisher.

Encountering Freedom

Dirk Willems paced to and fro in his cold cell. This breaking night might be his last. Any day the court servants might come to fetch him. And that would be the end of him.

Suddenly Dirk Willems stood still. Through the bars of the small window he saw the twinkling stars. A frigid breeze blew in at him. Yes, there would surely be a hard freeze tonight. Would the moat be frozen too? Would the ice already be strong enough to hold his weight? Could he possibly escape?

Dirk Willems frightened himself. How had he suddenly started thinking along those lines? Hadn't the Lord been a wonderful comfort to him? Hadn't the Lord already taken away his fear of death? Then why was he still thinking of escaping?

Dirk Willems fought a hard fight. Then he thought about the saints of the Bible: Abraham, Jacob, David, Saul of Tarsus, and many others. Each of them had fled from their captors when they got the chance. Dirk Willems saw clearly that fleeing from the enemy was biblical.

You don't have to offer yourself up to a wicked enemy, like a helpless lamb. With that thought Dirk Willems ran to the barred window. He tugged on the bars and discovered that they were a little bit loose. With some effort he managed to pull several of the bars free from the window. A stone from the wall fell on the floor at his feet. He leaned over, picked up the stone and threw it out of the window as carefully as possible. A dull thud told Dirk Willems that the heavy stone had not broken through the ice. So the ice must be fairly thick already.

That confirmed his plan. He would try to cross the ice and escape to safety. The thought flashed through his mind, "Soon I'll see my wife and children again. . . ."

Quietly Dirk Willems took off his outer clothes and tied them into a makeshift rope. He tied one end tightly to a bar that held firm. Then the great challenge began. With some difficulty he worked his way though the small window. Now he had to watch what he was doing. He took a firm hold on the cloth rope. If it broke, he was done for; or if the ice would not hold him, he could drown or the guard would hear him. Extreme caution was crucial. Soon he dangled outside the window. The cloth rope creaked ominously. Below him shone the ice. Carefully, hand over hand down the rope, with his legs seeking support on the wall's uneven surface while his knees scraped along the rough stones, Dirk Willems approached the ice.

In spite of the biting wind his forehead was beaded with sweat, not only from the exertion but from the terrible tension of the moment. Hoping, fearing, praying, he went on. At last he felt the surface of the ice with his toes. Now it was time for the real test.

If the ice would not hold him, he would have to try to climb back up again. Would he have the strength left to do it? Carefully he put one foot on the ice, and then the other. Then he tried to stand, still holding the rope firmly. You can never know!

It succeeded. The ice could carry him. From the depths of his heart, he offered a prayer of thanks to the Lord. Then with a calm heart, he dared to let go of the rope. Step by step, standing quietly now and then to listen, Dirk Willems moved across the mirror-slick ice. His only fear now was the guard. Now he had to be more careful than ever, because of the bright moon. Fortunately he could see the outline of the shore up ahead. Just a few more steps and he would be there. The greatest danger was over. . . .

"Hey there, stop! Stop, I said!" Dirk Willems froze for an instant at the guard's cry.

But only for a moment. Then he sprang forward, raced to the shore, disappeared through the bushes and began to run as fast as he could. The guard wouldn't be able to catch him now, unless things went very wrong. But the guard could not simply let his prisoner get away. If the guard allowed the heretic to escape, it could cost him his life. Look out, now. With a musket in his hand, the young soldier began to run. Good thing the moon was so bright. After all, if the ice could hold such a damnable heretic, it would certainly carry an ardent disciple of the holy Roman church!

Thump! The agile soldier sprang onto the ice and hurried after the fugitive. Faster and faster he ran, with longer strides, his steps rumbling faster and heavier on the ice.

One thing drove him on; he had to catch that heretic, dead or alive. See, those were the bushes through which the heretic had disappeared. And behind the bushes lay a large open field. One musket shot would do it. No, there would be no escape. . . .

Then it happened. The ice broke with a terrifying crack. A cry, a scream, and the soldier floundered in the icy water. A weak spot in the ice had collapsed beneath his heavy footfall. The guard sank to the chin in stone-cold water. With all his strength he tried to climb out. But the ice broke again and again. Only with great effort could he keep his head above water. He wouldn't be able to hold out for long.

The water saturated his clothes. An invisible hand seemed to drag the poor man down. He felt the strength leaving his hands. Not surprising: the temperature was well below freezing. The poor soldier seemed to have no choice but to die a miserable death.

But he did not want to die. An awful fear overwhelmed him. In terror he screamed at the top of his lungs, "Help . . . help, I'm drowning! . . . Help!"

But his frightened cry was lost in the silence of the cold night. The other soldiers lay in the warm straw, asleep like oxen. Again his cry for help rang out. Again it was the cry of a desperate man.

"Come . . . help . . . drowning . . . !!" The sounds were raw and futile. The solders did not wake up. And the villagers had gone to bed long before. It was winter and very cold. Who would be on the streets on a night like this? At best, the pastor on the way to visit someone seriously ill. But not even the pastor was to be seen. Only a few wild geese disturbed the stillness.

The unfortunate guard knew all too well that he was doomed. Once more he cried out. He screamed like a desperate animal. But no one heard him. No one?

Dirk Willems ran for his life. He had already left the bushes far behind. Now and then he looked around to see whether the guard was following. He did not see a thing. No, he saw nothing, but . . . what did he hear? He stood still for a moment. Yes, now he heard it again. It was a cry for help. And suddenly Dirk Willems knew exactly what had happened: the guard, his enemy, had fallen through the ice. Now he could slow down a bit; the danger had decreased. Again he heard the terrified cry of his enemy. What a miracle: he was safe, and the soldier would drown if no one came to help. And who would hear the guard? Well, you never know. What if his comrades rush to help him, and then all of them take up the chase!

Look, he's still dawdling. He should be running, as fast as he can. . . .

But Dirk Willems felt as if his legs were made of lead. He couldn't go any farther. His enemy's cry for help would not let him go. Behind him the guard was fighting for his life. He would drown soon, deep in the icy water. At least, he'd drown if no help arrived. . . . "Love your enemies, bless them who curse you," it said in God's word. Yes, Dirk Willems thought about it. He knew well what was in the Bible. And he also knew that this was the Christmas season, the celebration of the advent of the Lord Jesus. He, the Lord of Glory, came to this accursed world to make friends of those who were enemies. Oh, Dirk Willems shivered with joy as he thought about that miracle: come to reconcile enemies with God. Come also for him. Crown and throne left behind, to walk this accursed earth. For him, a wretch, who abandoned the Lord wilfully. For him, who had despised both God and neighbor.

Then scenes from the life of the Lord Jesus flashed through Dirk Willems' mind. How He was burdened, mocked, and taunted! And finally He was hanged upon the cross. He who traveled through the land doing good: the blind given sight, the deaf hearing, and the godless given a new heart. Yes, Dirk Willems knew it well. It was his solemn duty to rescue his enemy from death. How frightful it would be for the guard to die unreconciled. Our God is a consuming fire and an eternal flame. All this Dirk Willems knew, and yet . . . .

It was a great struggle. How he longed for his wife and children! If he continued to run, he would be with them soon. What a surprising and happy reunion it would be! Did he really have to trouble himself about the soldier, such a zealous follower of the Roman church that was murdering God's holy ones?

"Whoever loves father or mother, brother or sister, wife or child more than me is not worthy to be mine." These words pierced his heart like an arrow. Christ's will is that we love the enemy. What had his Master not done for him? Shouldn't he follow in his precious Master's footsteps?

Then he made his decision. Wife and children were forgotten. The Lord's commandment won the day. Out of love for the Master, the battle was won.

Look, Dirk Willems hurried back over the field. He ran as hard as he could. Someone was in need, in desperate need. An enemy was about to drown! And he, Dirk Willems, would try to rescue him. For the sake of Christ. . . .

"Calm down, help is coming; I'm coming to rescue you," cried Dirk Willems to the desperately floundering guard. The guard was in a precarious position. He could barely hold his head and arms above water. Any second he might sink into the cold depths. He had no feeling left in his arms. And he could hardly cry out any more.

He rejoiced when he saw someone coming. But when he recognized his rescuer, he shrank back in disgust. What? Must he be helped by a heretic? Must an enemy of the holy mother church rescue him from this crisis? Where were his own friends? Shouldn't he refuse the help that the heretic was offering? But then he would drown for sure! Meanwhile, Dirk Willems had laid a couple of long thick branches onto the ice. Cautiously he crept toward the soldier. Soon he found himself right in front of the guard. Dirk Willems looked at him. Then he felt an awful premonition. What a hostile look the guard was giving him. The look in his eyes meant no good. Why didn't the guard speak to him? Was he somehow unhappy to be rescued? Wasn't Dirk Willems putting his own life in danger? If the ice gave way now, they would both die.

Why did the guard glare so hatefully at his rescuer?

Still, Dirk Willems did not even consider leaving him to die. It was his duty to help. He was still completely convinced, in spite of everything.

With a strong grip, Dirk Willems took hold of one of the drowning man's arms. Then the heavy difficult work began. Backing up over the thick branches, on his belly, he tried to bring the guard onto the ice. It didn't go smoothly. The water had made the soldier as heavy as lead. Still, he made some progress. Fifteen minutes later, he had managed to pull the guard's upper body onto the branches. Then he worked on getting the rest of his body onto the ice. Finally, at long last, he succeeded. Carefully, with the ice cracking ominously beneath them, the two men crept over the branches to the shore.

"Thank God that you're safe, soldier!" was the first thing Dirk Willems said when they both stood on the frozen grass.

"Heretic," sneered the guard, and before Dirk Willems knew it, the guard who had been rescued from deathly danger grabbed him firmly with his left hand while drawing a short sword with his right. Then the ungrateful soldier bellowed at his dismayed rescuer, "You scum, you almost made me drown! It's your fault that I was sinking in the cold moat. Now, move! — back to the prison . . . don't try to escape, or I'll run you through . . . get moving, heretic!"

Dirk Willems moved on. No, he hadn't expected this. Only now did he realize how deep the hatred ran. Still, he did not regret rescuing the guard. Didn't he do it for the sake of Christ? It didn't hurt him that he was being driven back to prison, with the point of a sword at his neck. It hurt him even less that the guard sneered. In his heart he was at peace with a quiet calm. Was not his Master also treated thus? Didn't He also give His life for His enemies?

Through his faith, Dirk Willems could see the supreme Leader and Fulfiller of the faith, who endured the cross, thinking nothing of its shame.

The other soldiers of the guard gave them a funny look, when the half-dressed heretic was shoved through the door by their dripping-wet comrade.

"What happened to you, Gerbrand?" they laughed.

"What happened to me?" retorted the scoundrel. "Oh, I'll tell you, all right. But first get this heretic back into his cell."

Dirk Willems was shoved roughly into the prison. Several soldiers fixed the bars on the window. Escape was now entirely impossible. Indeed, Dirk Willems didn't feel like escaping any more. Dead tired, he fell into his meager clothing and onto his small pile of straw. It was bitter cold.

He shook all over. Seldom had he felt so tired and exhausted. But Dirk Willems knew one thing for sure. The struggle would not last much longer.

Nineteen days of oppression were already past. His tiredness forgotten and filled with joy he began:

My Lord and God, since You are there,
How could another god compare?
There is no other, great or small,
You alone are Lord of all.
And even though I faint at length,
Though my heart loses all its strength,
In You, Lord, is my comfort complete,
My inheritance, fortress, safe retreat.

The Lord was his God, now and forever. The cold prison became his entrance gate to heaven. Lying in that musty place, Dirk Willems was high above the clouds in spirit. "How great and good you are, Lord," he whispered softly. Then he fell asleep quickly. The bitter cold did not seem to touch him.

A rat ran across his body and helped himself to the bread crust that was intended for the prisoner. The creature finished off the last crumb. Toward morning, voices sounded. Gates creaked open. Loud laughter and rough jokes rang out. Dirk Willems did not hear any of it. He slept the sleep of the righteous.

Only as the door of his prison clattered open with a loud bang did he awaken.

The rays of the red sun shone through the bars. It was no longer very early. The new day had begun several hours ago.

A gruff voice informed Dirk Willems that he must come along. Today his punishment would be carried out, far from the prison. For the last time Dirk cast his eyes around his humble cell. He would now leave this room forever. As he stepped in front of the armed soldier into the dark hall, he murmured, "This was a house of God for me, a gate of heaven."

Later that afternoon Dirk Willems was beheaded. They were afraid that the heretic would try to escape again, and so they made short work of him. His death was indeed an entrance into undisturbed salvation.

The brave guard was praised extravagantly. His life was spared for his good work. The heretic had not escaped, and the holy Roman church had the guard to thank.

No one countered the praises that the guard received. Not one word of contradiction was said about the noble deed of Dirk Willems. The Roman clergymen had kept silent about this on purpose. On purpose, because after the execution, the soldier had told some of the clergymen what had really happened. Did an uneasy conscience make him tell? But they brushed it off casually. "If he had not tried to escape, you wouldn't have nearly drowned," the clergymen spoke on his behalf. With that, the affair was dismissed.

But slowly the story of the noble deed of Dirk Willems leaked out. Friends and enemies were deeply touched by this simple act of human love. And for many this became an eternal blessing. Many from Dirk's village publicly chose the Reform, which served as a comfort and support for the deeply grieving widow and her children, to the disgust of the pastor and his followers.

Soon, in the Day of Days, Dirk Willems will receive the crown of righteousness in full measure. And not only him, but all who have believed in the coming of the Lord Jesus.

Mennonite Martyrs as Amsterdam Martyrs

Mary Sprunger

Dirk Pietersz Smuel and Jacob de Geldersman, 1546

Many Mennonites are familiar with the illustrations from the 1685 edition of Thieleman Jansz van Braght's Martyrs' Mirror. By the Dutch Mennonite artist Jan Luyken (1649-1712), a poet and prolific print-maker, the 104 Martyrs' Mirror etchings are just a fraction of the more than 3,000 prints that he produced during his career. Less familiar are four additional Luyken etchings of Anabaptist martyrs that appear in a monumental book on the city of Amsterdam by Casparus Commelin.[1] While the scenes do not differ much from the well-known Martyrs' Mirror prints, their setting—a general work on Amsterdam, as opposed to a Mennonite martyrology—merits some attention.

Beschryvinge van Amsterdam . . . [Description of Amsterdam], first published in 1693, is a large two-volume work celebrating the city's history and geography. Besides the historical accounts, Commelin details the workings of the city government and describes all of the important buildings and institutions of the city, such as orphanages and churches (including three Mennonite churches).[2] The book is illustrated with many etchings of buildings, cityscapes, maps and historical scenes. Most of the prints were not signed, but apparently several illustrators were commissioned for the project. Eleven of the prints have been attributed to Jan Luyken, including the four Anabaptist martyr scenes reproduced here.[3]

Luyken's martyr etchings illustrate the stories of several Anabaptists who were executed on the main city square in Amsterdam, called the Dam. The inclusion of these stories in such a work attests to the prominent place that Anabaptism still played in the city's history in the late seventeenth century. Especially remarkable is that Commelin portrays these martyrs more as general victims of the abuse suffered by the Roman Catholic city authorities and Spanish imperial rule than as dangerous Anabaptist heretics. This is in stark contrast to the treatment of the other Anabaptists in the book.

The first two pictures come near the end of a twenty-page section that deals with the history of the Anabaptist movement in Amsterdam from a secular perspective.[4] Thus of interest is the persecution of Anabaptists and the radical manifestations of the movement, culminating in the 1535 violent takeover of the city hall by a minority of Anabaptists. These revolutionaries were influenced by events at Münster, where Anabaptists had set up their own kingdom. In Amsterdam, success lasted only one night. The immediate effect of the failed coup was to initiate a new round of persecution. One of Luyken's prints illustrates the torture of Jan or Jacob van Campen, an Anabaptist leader from Amsterdam who was not directly involved in the uprising but blamed nevertheless.[5] These Anabaptists were clearly a threat to the city's stability.

Commelin then went on to describe the continuing persecution of Anabaptists or, as he explained, doopsgezinden (baptism-minded), suggesting that he was aware that most remaining Anabaptists by the late 1540s were peaceful followers of Menno Simons rather than dangerous revolutionaries. He cited the Martyrs' Mirror as his authority on terminology, which further suggests that he used Van Braght as a source for his martyr stories.[6] The close parallels of the accounts in both texts provide further evidence for this probability.

This on-going persecution is the context for the first two prints. Commelin's description accompanying the illustration of the two men burned on ladders does not give many details. In 1546, Dirk Pietersz Smuel and Jacob de Geldersman, both from Edam, were arrested and jailed in Amsterdam, then tried and sentenced to death in the Hague. They were brought back to Amsterdam, tied on to ladders and burned on the Dam.[7] The Martyrs' Mirror account is not much more detailed but includes the interrogation of Smuel, as well as a testament and letter written from prison.[8]

The second print accompanies the story of eight Anabaptists burned together in 1549. A group of twenty

Ellert Jansz and seven other Anabaptists, 1549

Anabaptists were imprisoned in Amsterdam. Eleven were able to escape from jail but had to leave nine of their fellow prisoners behind. Of these, one made a conscious choice to stay. According to Commelin, "... a certain tailor named Ellert Jansz could have escaped with the others, by using a rope to slide down from a window, but he did not want to. `I am now so peacefully resigned,' he said, `to offer up a sacrifice, and I now feel so blissful that I do not need to live longer to become any better.'" Thus on March 20, 1549, he was burned along with five other men and two women (the third woman was spared because she was pregnant). As Ellert Jansz was dying, he cried, "I have never lived a happier day."[9] While the account in Commelin portrays these martyrs as committed and faithful to the end, Van Braght, in keeping with the purpose of a martyrology, elaborated on the significance of Ellert's witness. A cousin of Ellert, Jan Jansz, was so moved by this martyr's final testimony that he became an Anabaptist soon afterwards.[10] That Commelin then went on to chronicle the shift of power from Hapsburg emperor Charles V to his son Philip II puts even these Mennonite martyrs into the broader context of Protestant persecution, as opposed to linking them with the revolutionary Anabaptists. In 1555, Philip intensified persecution and brought in the Inquisition to help with the process.

Pieter Pietersz Bekje, Anabaptist meeting on a boat

The stories accompanying the second set of Luyken martyr prints even more clearly portray Mennonites as part of the larger history of the city's struggle against Roman Catholicism and Spanish tyranny. In 1566, parts of the Netherlands began to revolt against Spanish rule. Calvinists, still a small minority of the Dutch population, were the driving force behind the revolt. The authorities of Amsterdam continued to support Spain until 1578, when the Protestants succeeded in taking over the city. Commelin names various Lutherans and Reformed (Calvinists) who were imprisoned, tortured and executed under the increasingly heavy yoke of persecution in the late 1560s.[11] This is the context for the stories of Pieter Pietersz Bekje and Willem Jansz from 1569. It is remarkable that Commelin does not overtly refer to them as Mennonites:

> The terrible theater of murder had no rest in the City; indeed, it was at its hottest stage, so that those who were in hiding from the Roman church sometimes, in order to edify one another, rowed outside of the city in a boat. For this purpose Pieter Pietersz. Bekje, a boatman, yet with no little knowledge of Scripture, willingly let himself be used. Indeed, he even edified and comforted his passengers with the word of God. For this he was finally arrested by the law, gruesomely tortured, and, on February 29, 1569, burned alive on the Dam.[12]

Only in the official sentence, which Commelin quoted in its entirety, was mention made of the fact that Bekje was Mennonite.

The story continued. A fellow believer, Willem Jansz from Waterland (an area just north of Amsterdam), heard about Bekje's execution date and hastened to Amsterdam. He arrived so late that the city had already been closed off for the execution, and he had to bribe his way through the gate.

Willem arrived at the Dam just in time to see Bekje being readied at the stake. He ". . . stood on the steps of the weighing house and called to him (so overcome was he with the zeal to encourage his brother in the faith), 'Brother, struggle piously!'" When the wrong man was apprehended for this bold show of support, Willem came forward and identified himself. This confession earned him arrest, interrogation, two rounds of torture, and, on March 12, 1569, execution by burning along with three other Anabaptists.[13] Commelin also described the martyrdom of several other Mennonites before moving on to political and military events.

Commelin's treatment of the Anabaptist-Mennonite martyrs as part of Amsterdam's struggle against Spain and the Catholic church is suggestive of the respectable position of the Dutch Mennonites by the late seventeenth century. While it is safe to assume that most, if not all, Mennonites supported the Dutch revolt (some contributed large sums of money to William of Orange), once the Calvinists gained power, they did not see the Mennonites as allies, but as threats to the Reformed establishment. Mennonites were officially barred from holding public office or studying theology at the Reformed universities. It is unlikely that in the late sixteenth century or early seventeenth century, Mennonite martyrs would have been viewed as civic martyrs in the struggle for a Protestant city. By 1693, apparently, things had changed. Besides receiving more extensive textual treatment, Anabaptists are the only individual martyrs pictured in the book. Whether or not Luyken had artistic license to choose which scenes to depict, his etchings draw attention to the Mennonite martyrs in this general history of Amsterdam.

Willem Jansz, 1569

Endnotes

1. Casparus Commelin, Beschrywinge van Amsterdam . . . . . Amsterdam: Wolfgang, Waasberge, Boom, van Someren and Goethals, 1693.
2. Commelin, 499-501.
3. P. van Eeghen et al, Het Werk van Jan en Casper Luyken, 2 vols. (Amsterdam: Frederik Muller, 1905), 233-35. The eleven etchings are on pages 170, 872, 938, 944, 945, 1028, 1029 and 1072.
4. Commelin, 926-46.
5. Commelin, 938.
6. Commelin, 939.
7. Commelin, 944.
8. T[hieleman] J[ansz] V[an] Braght, Het Bloedig Tooneel, of Martelaers Spiegel . . . (Amsterdam: J. vander Deyster et al, 1685), II:82-84; English translation by Joseph F. Sohm, The Bloody Theater or Martyrs Mirror . . . , 15th ed. (Scottdale, PA: Herald Press, 1987), 475-81.
9. Commelin, 944.
10. Van Braght, II: 82-84; Sohm, 483.
11. Commelin, 1027
12. Commelin, 1028.
13. Commelin, 1029-30.

Singing at the Fire

Shirley Sprunger King

Sarah Klassen

Brent Weaver

Audiences at six Mennonite colleges in North America witnessed a unique artistic production this spring in the 22nd annual C. Henry Smith Peace Lectureship. Singing at the Fire consists of three musical compositions for organ by Brent Weaver, professor of composition and music theory at Clayton State College near Atlanta, Georgia. Weaver's compositions were based on poems by Sarah Klassen, a Canadian Mennonite poet who is currently teaching English in Lithuania. The presentation was designed, commissioned, and performed by the 1997 C. Henry Smith Peace Lecturer, Shirley Sprunger King, professor of music and organist at Bethel College.

One does not have to look very far to find evidence of Anabaptists writing hymns and singing in prison. Often these hymns had additional details added to them after the writer was killed, the hymn text thus becoming another source of information about their martyrdom. Many of the accounts of the hymn-singing indicate that the prisoners sang to cheer each other, to evangelize, and to pray for personal courage and steadfastness in the face of persecution, torture and death.

Stories of the early martyrs recorded in van Braght's Martyrs Mirror of the Defenseless Christians have reached a broad audience in recent years through the traveling exhibit and book, Mirror of the Martyrs by John S. Oyer and Robert S. Kreider. Poets like Sarah Klassen have been moved to write responses to some of the pictures and stories, providing a new means for sharing these important and moving stories for modern audiences.

When I became acquainted with Sarah's poetry, I was impressed with the many references to images of sound, particularly to song and singing. I became intrigued with the possibilities of pushing these poems further—to use them as inspiration, or a point of departure for music, specifically solo organ music.

My interest as a twentieth-century Anabaptist musician, whose voice is non-textual, was to reintroduce these stories in new ways, to explore how the combining of multiple art-forms could provide a unique and powerful voice for these stories. My intent was not to achieve the precision of a mirror or good translation, but something more like a paraphrase for our time—to convey to a contemporary audience these earlier events. I wondered if this distinctive combination of contemporary voices (poet, composer and performer) might serve to inspire and strengthen us as we seek to share our own "good witness" in today's world.

In Philosophy in a New Key, Susanne Langer writes: "Music is revealing, where words are obscuring, because it can have not only a content, but a transient play of contents. It can articulate feelings without becoming wedded to them." (243-44) The challenge to compose descriptive organ music was offered as a commission to H. Brent Weaver, who seemed fascinated with the project. I selected three of Sarah's poems to form the basis of an organ work, much in the style of Ned Rorem's A Quaker Reader, a collection of eleven solo organ works, inspired by writings of Quaker leaders.

In The Spiritual in Art, Kandinsky writes, "The sound of color is so definite that it would be hard to find anyone who would express bright yellow with bass notes, or dark lake with the treble" (45). As an organist, I am constantly searching for the most appropriate colors or timbres to interpret and communicate the musical notation and ideas of the composer. What are the colors of screams, or terrified singing, or pompous doctors of theology? One of the particular pleasures I experience as an organist is the challenge of bringing music to life on different instruments, each with their own personality and limitations.

I believe the unique ways each artist "tells" these stories of early Anabaptist martyrs bring new insights for today's audience. The combining of these art forms—van Braght's Martyrs Mirror, Jan Luyken's etchings, Sarah Klassen's poetry, Brent Weaver's compositions and the performance of these organ works —allows us to experience the martyr stories anew, on many levels.

Shirley Sprunger King

Visual art frequently invokes in me the desire to write, maybe because it presents me with ready-made images.

These three poems are part of a cycle of twenty poems about Mennonite martyrs. I've titled them "Singing at the Fire." Most of them have appeared in various Canadian publications.

About three years ago I was reading in Mirror of the Martyrs (1990) edited by Robert Kreider and John Oyer after the recovery of the only remaining copper plates prepared by Jan Luyken for the second edition of Martyrs Mirror. I was fascinated both by the stark, simply-told experiences of the martyrs and by the (mis)adventures of the copper plates. But my strongest response was to the illustrations, reproductions of Jan Luyken's engravings. The artist visualized every cruel detail and made no effort to soften the suffering. Visual art frequently invokes in me the desire to write, maybe because it presents me with ready-made images. I studied Luyken's renditions: the woman suspended by her slender wrists; a condemned woman offering her baby to anyone who would care for it; the woman who was present only in the ashes through which her older son searched for the tongue screw while the younger orphan looked on; two women with mock crowns of straw on their way to death.

These images raised the obvious questions about the darkness of the human heart and about whether I could endure torture and death for my faith. Were all these deaths necessary? Did God really require them? Since life is sacred, wouldn't it have been better to compromise a little and live? Did this wide-spread persecution awaken some kind of mass hysteria resulting in an explosion of death wishes?

My original resolve was to write poems about the women martyrs only, but I didn't stay with that. I turned to the larger Martyrs Mirror (in which I'd read very little so far) and was struck by the victims' desire to leave "a good witness." This "good witness" was often accomplished through words: conversation with interrogators and jailers, letters home. But most poignant for me was the "good witness" expressed (faithfully? stubbornly?) in song with the flames already dancing around the victim's feet.

When I heard that the exhibition of the Luyken plates would be coming to Winnipeg, I had already written most of the poems, and was probably as well prepared as anyone in Winnipeg to view the exhibition. I remember seeing the old, worn letter written by Maeyken Wens before her death by fire—it had provided the beginning for one of my poems. "My God!" I thought. "There it is, her letter!" And for a moment I really thought it was the original, and not just a very good replica.

It's hard to know when a cycle is finished. This past winter I wrote one more poem for the series; I think it's the last.

"Singing at the fire" was first published in The Fiddlehead, winter 1994. "Cost of execution" has been accepted for publication in Descant. "Praise God" was first published in The Fiddlehead, winter 1995.

Sarah Klassen

Singing at the fire

The song's impossible to sing without hands becoming fists, without the stone weight of pain stabbing your gut like a sharp star.
Without grace.

Seven martyrs made it up in solitary cells. Each one composed a prayer in a meter they must have agreed on. One cries out in fear, one begs God for help, another intercedes fervently for the persecutors, pleads for the faithful who will live.
One was a woman. Another, a young boy, Picture them

singing while the flesh burns, the breath lifting a melody, the stubborn tongue in the seared mouth shaping the smokeblackened words.

No record's kept of the seven.
No one knows what the heart-wrenched angel writes in blood in the lamb's book. No one knows the names engraved on white stone: the sacred stone those slain seven hold, to whom is given the small unflinching light of the morning star.

Seven Martyrs
Schwäbisch Gmünd, 1528

These three pieces are the most frankly pictorial music I've ever composed. The first piece is a contrast of the screams of souls in pain with the song of those whom God's spirit bears up in suffering. The torturers try harder and harder to stop the song, but it just keeps coming back. Indeed, in the latter part of this piece, as the torture gets worse, more and more voices join in the song. At the end, the pain is only a distant echo as the seven martyrs move toward that 'small unflinching light of the morning star.'

Brent Weaver

Cost of execution

Before his death they give Gerrit Hazenpoet the best place at the table. He refuses wine willing to wait for new and better wine in heaven.
He's not used to feasting lavishly, would be amazed if he knew the inflated cost of execution:

The police of course must be paid for making the arrest,
Jan van Venloe for planting the stake,
the escort who takes him to it,
the city fathers for their valuable time.
Can't expect an executioner to work without pay, without rope, without a jug of wine handy.
Masters are mandated to make sure the prisoner's rights are upheld in his desolate cell.

Add wood and straw to fuel the fire.
Add a priest.
Add proper doctors of theology to induce Hazenpoet to recant.

His wife faints with grief and Hazenpoet goes to his death alone, lifts with his final breath plain words of a simple hymn, intones
the melody's last cadence, tasting praise and confession, tasting vows of love, savouring the last extravagant mouthfuls of succulent air.

Gerrit Hazenpoet
Nijmegen, 1557

The music of the second piece is a kind of grotesque caricature of those for whom the extinguishing of human life is a normal, everyday business. The music lurches along mechanically, with Gerrit's song almost lost in the shuffle. The movement as a whole is a classic rondo with coda; the interruptions to this routine are for the authorities to get their fingers in the pie in a short fugato, and after Gerrit is led to the stake with the usual fanfare and pomp, for the priests and doctors of theology to start the fire and bless the murder. But again, almost as if in a cinematic close-up, the focus shifts at the end from the flames around the stake to the song of 'praise and confession' that Gerrit sings out with his last breath.

Brent Weaver

Praise God

Bells toll a sombre invitation and the people come.
The woman's shoes have been removed for death. Doomed, she's arrayed in a dull red petticoat. Before the end she lifts a slender hand like this as if in benediction, pulls from her aching mouth the wooden gag meant to keep her mute and begins bravely singing her terrified heart out.

Adriantje Jans of Malenaarsgraaf
Dordrecht, 1572

The third piece begins with the organ suggesting the tolling bells that call the crowds to Adriantje's execution, juxtaposed with bits of the songs of the martyrs. The following section is a passacaglia, a form often associated with the organ and with mourning and grief; it is based on those bell chords and grows increasingly frantic as she is led through the jeering crowds to the stake. The thick cluster-chord that follows could be the wall of smoky flame that shoots up around her, or the fog of fear that we all feel in moments of pain. The complexity of the chord sets up acoustic beats that make the chord seem to jump, flutter and vibrate in the air. As Adriantje begins her song at the stake, some of the notes she sings are taken out of that thick chord, an effect only the organ can do really well. The intended effect is of fear gradually burning away into clarity, leaving only her bold, solitary voice at the end.

Brent Weaver

Ash Wednesday Elegy, 1995

Auch ein Klaglied zu sein . . . ist herrlich.
—Fr. Schiller

The ashes today
my cousin are yours from somewhere in South Russia they rise to leave their mark on my heart and unseal an old grief siehe, da weinen die Götter

Shapers of iron into reapers your people in Berdiansk lovers of peace
what drove you to Wrangel's arms to be cut down as grass lost among the dead at nineteen Johann my blood these ashes are yours
es weinen die Göttinnen alle

Your eyes give no clue no furor bellandi in a face soft with beauty boy warrior in winter cavalry sabre half hidden under a greatcoat too long for his arms so soon dust on the Kuban Johann my body
these are your ashes
daß das Schöne vergeht

This trace you leave us one last mother's memento before the bolshevik bullet Джон Судермань my relic raised up from the pit at Krasnodar shall your bones live the ashes this day are yours
daß das Vollkommene stirbt

David P. Sudermann

A Nonviolent World View: Doing International Politics from a Pacifist Perspective

Terry Rempel

Shortly before departing for the United Kingdom more than a year ago to begin a master's degree program in Middle East politics, I picked up a copy of a volume of essays called Nonviolent America: History through the Eyes of Peace.[1] The book intrigued me, in part, because it addressed the linkage between faith and historical research. As I read the book, I wondered if and how my faith as an Anabaptist would or should affect my studies in international politics. Would I be tempted, in the words of John Howard Yoder, to "make peace with the autonomy of the secular disciplines"?[2]

I've always been interested in politics—not so much in the actual practice of politics but in trying to figure out why politicians, governments and states do what they do. My interest in the Middle East was awakened shortly after graduating from college when I took advantage of an opportunity to travel to Israel and Palestine with Christian Peacemaker Teams. That awakening was soon nurtured by personal connections and gradually found sustenance and direction within the Anabaptist vision of peacemaking.

This article is more of a personal reflection than a treatise about the linkage between faith (and particularly the principle of pacifism) and the study of international politics. Admittedly, the links presented are still fragile while others are as yet nonexistent. Nevertheless, this is an attempt to explore what it means to do international politics from a pacifist Anabaptist perspective.[3]

The State

Given the sometimes sectarian approach to politics within Anabaptist circles, the state seems to be an appropriate starting point to examine the linkage between pacifism and international politics.[4] In international politics, the central actor is the state. State power—the capacity to control the behavior of other states—is contained within the governing authority of the state and is maintained by all possible means, including the use of force.[5] One of the basic features that defines the state is sovereignty. Internal sovereignty refers to the supremacy of the state over authorities within a specific territory and population. External sovereignty describes a state's independence from outside authorities, such as other states or nonstate actors.[6] International politics is concerned primarily with the latter, although internal sovereignty may be an important factor in analyzing the interaction of states as it affects state power.

Approaching international politics from a pacifist perspective—in which nonviolence is a defining feature—renders a slightly different view of the state. Gene Sharp notes: "An error frequently made by students of politics is to view political decisions, events and problems in isolation from the society in which they exist."[7] Politically, nonviolence is based on a pluralistic view of state power in which the capacity of the government to direct state behavior is dependent upon the consent, either active or acquiescent, of the members of the state. "The voluntary or habitual compliance of the mass of the population," states Karl Deutsch, "is the invisible but very real basis of the power of every government."[8] If the power of the state was monolithic, or independent of the consent of the members of the state, nonviolence would have little impact on the behavior of the state. Thus, from a

> "...nonviolence is based on a pluralistic view of state power in which the capacity of the government to direct state behavior is dependent upon the consent, either active or acquiescent, of the members of the state."

pacifist perspective, the state is not viewed as a unit of self-contained power. The pluralist, distributive nature of the pacifist view of state power, in which the capacity of the state to control the behavior of other states is conditional upon the consent of the members of the state, not only explains the potential effectiveness of nonviolence but also gives credence to the view that pacifism is a realistic approach to studying state interaction. If state power is dependent upon consent from the members of the state, the mass of the population can, by withholding support, potentially and nonviolently determine the behavior of the state towards other states.

For the Anabaptist engaged in international political studies, the state is not even the central actor. According to an Anabaptist/pacifist perspective, an understanding of the social gospel, in which nonviolence is rooted "in the teaching of Jesus, the nature of God, the ethos of the kingdom, the power of the resurrection,"[9] proclaims God's sovereignty over the state. In the introduction to a contextualized Lenten Bible study, Jonathon Kuttab writes, "The message of Easter, for Palestinians, as well as for the poor and oppressed everywhere, is that God is sovereign in the affairs of this world."[10] While the state may provide a useful structure for social order, allegiance remains bound to the God of creation who is sovereign in the affairs of the world, even in the midst of human freedom under which states are governed and interact.

State Objectives and Means

International politics as a field of study analyzes the interaction between two or more states within an international or global system as they attempt to achieve defined objectives or specified interests. Interactions between states can range from forms of violent conflict to methods of cooperation. These may be political, economic, strategic and/or social. Interaction between states may also involve nonstate actors such as the International Red Cross, international trade unions or national liberation movements.

K. J. Holsti defines four objectives common to contemporary states: security, autonomy, welfare and status or prestige.[11] All four objectives may not regulate state behavior at a given time while some may command greater priority in the foreign policy decision-making process than others. In and of themselves, these objectives are value-neutral. States employ a variety of means to achieve these objectives. These means can be plotted on a continuum from violent conflict to cooperation and include military force, strategic alliances, neutrality, isolation, international agreements and treaties, autarchy, free trade, protectionism and others.

> "If state power is dependent upon consent from the members of the state, the mass of the population can, by withholding support, potentially and nonviolently determine the behavior of the state towards other states."

A pacifist perspective does not negate security, autonomy, welfare and status or prestige as legitimate objectives that govern state interaction. Rather, pacifist doctrine introduces an additional objective (what might be referred to as a superobjective)—conflict resolution or peace. For pacifists, peace is both a moral and realistic central objective of the state, achieved through nonviolent means. War and other forms of violence—both organized and unorganized—are considered illegitimate means of state interaction. Pacifism rejects the myth of redemptive violence. The fact that Holsti, along with other practitioners of international politics, does not list peace as an objective of the state is instructive of the often-held distinction in international politics between so-called moral and realist objectives. The state may employ all possible means of power, including the use of force, to obtain security, autonomy, welfare and status or prestige while peace is considered to be a potential by-product. From the pacifist perspective, Holsti's four objectives are derivatives of peace.

"For pacifists, peace is both a moral and realistic central objective of the state, achieved through nonviolent means."

The Anabaptist perspective shares the view that peace—the presence of righteousness or the condition of right relations between states—is the central objective of the state. Though not exclusive to Anabaptism, this perspective defines peace not only as the absence of war (pax romana) but also by the presence of justice (shalom).[12] The linkage between objectives and means is found within the gospel. Walter Wink writes, "[Jesus] advocated means consistent with the desired end: a society of justice, peace, and equality free of authoritarianism, oppression and ranking."[13] By contrast, as Hedley Bull notes, the means by which states seek to achieve their objectives often "affront the most basic and widely-agreed principles of international justice, i.e. balance of power, international law that is superseded by force and war."[14] The Anabaptist perspective thus finds a unity between realist and moral objectives and means that stand in opposition to ethical dualism often found in international political studies.

The State System

As the study of international politics revolves around the search for regular patterns of behavior that govern and explain state interaction, it is necessary to examine the impact of pacifism on the state system, a group of independent political entities that interact with frequency and according to regularized rules or process.[15] International politics is not an objective science. Patterns or theories of state interaction are very much determined by the observer's world view. The degree to which the observer views the world as a place of conflict characterized by aggression and war or as a benign place regulated by rules of international law and trans-state institutions will determine the type of patterns or theories of state interaction derived.

The observer may view the world through any number of lenses. Realism, for example, views the world as a place of anarchy in which the state must rely upon itself for security. In a society-of-states model, interaction is regulated less through war (as in realism) and more through diplomacy and trade. State interactions in the pluralist independence

"International politics is not an objective science. Patterns or theories of state interaction are very much determined by the observer's world view" model are determined largely by science, technology and economics rather than military force. The dependency model views state interaction between societies as hierarchical, unbalanced and often exploitative. The world society model focuses on issues of quality of life rather than war, order and stability.

There is no correct world view of the state system in international politics. The observer's analysis of state interaction may only be incorrect insofar as it is not adequately explained by a concrete set of variables and illustrated by appropriate historical data. Two different observers may analyze the same interactions between states and yet produce different results on the pattern of state behavior. Thus, while the world view through which the observer analyzes the interaction between states may be value-laden, the veracity of the analysis is value-neutral. Both observers, provided they are able to demonstrate the validity of their results, by both variables and historical data, are correct.

"The pacifist world view disputes the notion that violence effectively regulates state interaction, that it is an effective means to attain security, autonomy, welfare, status/prestige and, more importantly, peace."

While theorists and theologians such as Gene Sharp and Walter Wink have made valuable contributions towards fleshing out pacifism as a world view, it nonetheless remains marginal within the secular discipline of international politics. The key variable of a pacifist world view as an organizing and explanatory tool of state interaction is nonviolence. The pacifist world view disputes the notion that violence effectively regulates state interaction, that it is an effective means to attain security, autonomy, welfare, status/prestige and, more importantly, peace. The pacifist perspective contends that the apparent effectiveness of violence is based on short-term interests and a system of domination where the state is the locus of power. The pacifist world view, where power is distributive and pluralistic and state behavior is guided by long-term interests, considers the myth of redemptive violence that is at the heart of the state system as a variable that explains the security dilemma, war, and economic exploitation.[16]

While the state system may provide a model for necessary international order, the Anabaptist perspective acknowledges the condition of human sinfulness under which the state system operates and exists. The Anabaptist perspective even appears to call into question the nature of the state system within the context of God's sovereignty. Duane Friesen writes: "[Christians] belong to Jesus Christ, and in that sense their loyalties and commitments transcend a narrow national identity. It is distressing that the churches often fail to live with loyalties and commitments that transcend their own nation states."[17] So long as one continues to think in terms of the nation-state operating basically as a self-contained power unit in a world of self-contained nation-states, then war as an institution for solving disputes between these units seems inevitable.[18]

Conclusion

After more than a year of doing Middle East politics, the impact of a pacifist Anabaptist belief system remains troublesome. The Anabaptist perspective challenges or turns upside down notions of the state, its objectives and the system of states. What does it mean to engage oneself in the study of international politics without retreating behind sectarian walls yet remaining within the sanctuary of one's faith? The task seems to be

"If God is the locus of sovereignty, one must search for the inflowing of God's presence as a determinative factor in state interaction and then attempt to determine a pattern of explanatory variables."

twofold. First, it is incumbent to begin by understanding how others understand international politics: the state, its objectives and means and the different world views of the state system. The second part of the task is to re-examine these three factors guided by a "vivid sense of God's counterreality as more real than reality itself."[19]

If state power is pluralistic and distributive, one must examine the impact of members of the state, both individuals and nonstate institutional actors, on state interaction. If God is the locus of sovereignty, one must search for the inflowing of God's presence as a determinative factor in state interaction and then attempt to determine a pattern of explanatory variables. If peace and justice are the objectives of the state, international politics must be partial to long-term analysis and consideration of the poor and oppressed. It will be necessary to look for patterns of nonviolent interaction that challenge and break the myth of redemptive violence. Finally, if one is unbounded by the borders of the state, it is important to search for variables and historical data beyond the immediate confines of the state and explain and describe state interaction. Perhaps the final and ongoing challenge, in this respect, is to clearly explain and articulate a world view that is faithful to God's "counterreality" which as yet remains realized only in part.

Endnotes

1. Louise Hawkley and James C. Juhnke, eds., Nonviolent America: History through the Eyes of Peace (North Newton, KS: Bethel College, 1993).
2. John H. Yoder, Unpublished memorandum, December 21, 1965, Institute of Mennonite Studies. Cited in James C. Juhnke, "Manifesto for a Pacifist Reinterpretation of American History," Nonviolent America: History through the Eyes of Peace, 1.
3. The term Anabaptist is used rather than Christian as this is a personal reflection. The terms may be interchangeable.
4. For an overview of Anabaptist views towards politics, see Leo Driedger and Donald B. Kraybill, Mennonite Peacemaking: From Quietism to Activism (Scottdale, PA: Herald Press, 1994).
5. K. J. Holsti, International Politics: A Framework for Analysis. Seventh edition (Englewood Cliffs, NJ: Prentice-Hall, Inc., 1995), 117. Also Hedley Bull, The Anarchical Society (London: MacMillan, 1977), 54.
6. Bull, 8.
7. Gene Sharp, The Politics of Nonviolent Action, Power and Struggle, Part I (Boston: Porter Sargent Publishers, 1984), 10.
8. Karl Deutsch, The Analysis of International Relations. Second edition (Englewood Cliffs, NJ: Prentice-Hall, 1978), 17-18.
9. Walter Wink, Engaging the Powers: Discernment and Resistance in a World of Domination (Minneapolis: Fortress Press, 1992), 216.
10. Jonathon Kuttab, "Good Friday," The Things that Make for Peace: Palestinian Christians Reflect on Today's Jerusalem (Jerusalem: Sabeel Liberation Theology Center, 1997). Adapted from Cornerstone, Issue 4, Spring 1996 (Jerusalem: Sabeel Liberation Theology Center).
11. Holsti, 83. Some further objectives may be protection of ethnic, ideological, or religious kin and "dreams of world reorganization."
12. "Shalom means to bring healing to the earth; peace between humans and the nonhuman world; healing to the human body and spirit in its psychosomatic unity; righteousness and justice to the social order." Duane Friesen, "Living on the Boundary: Singing God's Song as Citizens and Aliens," A Drink from the Stream, Vol. 2, John K. Sheriff and Heather Esau, eds. (North Newton, Kansas: Bethel College, 1996), 45.
13. Wink, 127.
14. Bull, 87.
15. Holsti, 23.
16. In the security dilemma, a key feature of realism, the means by which one state provides for its security creates insecurity for other states.
17. Duane Friesen. "Living on the Boundary: Singing God's Song as Citizens and Aliens," 47.
18. Duane Friesen, Christian Peacemaking and International Conflict: A Realist Pacifist Perspective (Scottdale, PA: Herald Press, 1986), 34.
19. Wink, 323.

Mennonite Bibliography, 1996

Compiled by Barbara A. Thiesen, Mennonite Library & Archives, Bethel College (MLA)

Assisted by Harold E. Huber and Audrey J. Shenk, Menno Simons Historical Library / Archives, Eastern Mennonite University (EMU); Kevin Enns-Rempel, Center for Mennonite Brethren Studies (FRE); Paul Friesen, Mennonite Heritage Centre and Canadian Mennonite Bible College Library (MHC); Bonnie Miller, Mennonite Historical Library, Goshen College (MHL).

1996

500 ans après Menno Simons: en marche vers l'avenir avec Dieu: Echos du 6e Congrès Mennonite Européen à Elspeet (Pays-Bas) du 16 au 19 mai 1996. (Cahier de Christ Seul; 1996/2) Montbéliard: Cahier de Christ Seul, 1996. Pp. 84. FRE, MHL, MLA.

Ackerman, Susan Yoder. The flying pie and other stories. Scottdale: Herald, 1996. Pp. 64. MHL, MLA.

Ahlgrim, Ryan J. S. Visioning the reign of God: a process for creating parables in the spirit of Jesus. Thesis (D.Min.)—McCormick Theological Seminary, 1996. Pp. 36. MHL.

Alberda-van der Zijpp, T. Menno Simons. Amsterdam: MERK commité van de Algemene Doopsgezinde Societeit, 1996. Pp. 16. MHL.

All are witnesses: A collection of sermons by Mennonite Brethren women. Delores Friesen, ed. Winnipeg: Kindred, 1996. Pp. 184. FRE.

America experienced: eighteenth and nineteenth century accounts of Swiss immigrants to the United States. Leo Schelbert, ed. Camden: ME: Picton, 1996. Pp. 453. MHL.

Amish of Holmes County. Jon Kinney, ed. Orrville, OH: Spectrum, 1996. Pp. 256. EMU.

Les Amish: origine et particularismes 1693-1993 = The Amish: origin and characteristics, 1693-1993. Lydie Hege, Christoph Wiebe, eds. Ingersheim: AFHAM, 1996. Pp. 368. EMU, FRE, MHL, MLA.

Ammon, Richard. An Amish Christmas. New York: Atheneum Bks. for Young Readers, 1996. 1 v. EMU.

Andrews, George W. Schäublin and Thommen emigrants from the canton of Basel, Switzerland. Akron: Author, 1996. Pp. 47. MHL.

Arnold, Johann Christoph. A plea for purity: sex, marriage & God. Farmington, PA: Plough, 1996. Pp. 157. EMU, MHL, MLA.

Aroney-Sine, Christine. Tales of a seasick doctor: life aboard a mercy ship. Grand Rapids: Zondervan, 1996. Pp. 218. MHL.

Atlas of historical county boundaries: Pennsylvania. John H. Long, ed. New York: Scribner's, 1996. Pp. 241. MHL.

Augsburger, David W. Helping people forgive. Louisville: Westminster, 1996. Pp. 179. MHL.

Augsburger, David W. Importe-se o bastante para confrontar. 2a ed. Campinas, SP: Editora Cristã Unida, 1996. Pp. 140. EMU.

Baehr, Anna Ruth Ediger. Moonflowers at dusk. Northport, NY: Birnham Wood Graphics, 1996. Pp. 116. MLA.

Beachy, Betty K. and William V. Beachy. Christian Beachy, 1798-1875: grandson of immigrant Peter Beachy I. Baltimore: Authors, 1996. Pp. 176. MHL.

Bear, Lily A. The valley between. Crockett, KY: Rod & Staff, 1996. Pp. 175. EMU, MHL.

Bender, Carrie. A golden sunbeam. (Miriam's journal; 5) Scottdale: Herald, 1996. Pp. 168. FRE, MHL, MLA.

Bender, Carrie. Summerville days. (Whispering Brook; 2) Scottdale: Herald, 1996. Pp. 224. FRE, MHL, MLA.

Bender, Carrie. A treasured friendship. (Miriam's journal; 4) Scottdale: Herald, 1996. Pp. 157. MHL, MLA.

Bender, Esther. The crooked tree. Scottdale: Herald, 1996. Pp. 32. MHL, MLA.

Bergen, David. A year of Lesser. Toronto: Harper, 1996. Pp. 215. FRE, MLA.

Berry, Malinda Elizabeth. Calico & velvet: poems and essays. Goshen: Pinchpenny, 1996. Pp. 31. MHL.

Bethel College alumni directory 1996. North Newton: Bethel College, 1996 Pp. 274. MLA.

Beyond awareness: a model for multicultural education and curriculum infusion. Goshen: Multicultural Affairs Office, Goshen College, 1996. Pp. 44. MHL.

Bird, Roy. Kansas day by day. Tucson: Patrice Press, 1996. Pp. 281. MLA.

Bluffton College alumni directory, 1900-1996. White Plains, NY: Bernard C. Harris Pub., 1996. Pp. 279. MHL.

Bly, Daniel W. From the Rhine to the Shenandoah: eighteenth century Swiss & German pioneer families in the central Shenandoah Valley of Virginia and their European origins. Baltimore: Gateway, 1996. 2 v. MHL.

Bogard, Mike. 41 ways to build a better youth group. Newton: Faith & Life, 1996. Pp. 180. EMU, MLA.

Boll, Mary Jane. Mother's little helper cookbook and other activities. Crockett, KY: Rod & Staff, 1996. Pp. 48. MHL.

Borntrager, Mary Christner. Mandy. (Ellie's people; 9) Scottdale: Herald, 1996. Pp. 144. FRE, MHL, MLA.

Bowen, Keith. Among the Amish. Philadelphia: Running Press, 1996. Pp. 130. FRE.

Bowman, Christopher. How do you know? Wisdom in the Bible. (Generation why Bible studies; 2:2) Newton: Faith & Life, 1996. Pp. 36. MLA.

Bowman, Esther. Good times with Isaac and Sarah. Aylmer, ON: Pathway, 1996. Pp. 60. EMU, MHL, MLA.

Bowman, Esther. My outdoor friends. Aylmer, ON: Pathway, 1996. Pp. 24. EMU, MHL, MLA.

Brandt, Di. Dancing naked: Narrative strategies for writing across centuries. Stratford, ON: Mercury, 1996. Pp. 168. FRE.

Brenneman, John M. Pride and humility: a discourse, setting forth the characteristics of the proud and the humble. Hagerstown, MD: Deutsche Buchhandlung, James W. Lowry, 1996. Pp. 43. MHL.

Brown, Dale W. Understanding Pietism. Rev. ed. Nappanee: Evangel, 1996. Pp. 125. EMU, MHL.

Brubaker, Marwin E. and Margaret Brubaker Eller. Descendants of John and Anna Myers Brubaker, 1750-1995: a cross-referenced and indexed genealogy. Morgantown, PA: Masthof, 1996. Pp. 808. EMU, MHL.

Building to share. N. Newton, KS / Akron, PA: MCC, 1996. Pp. [28]. EMU.

Burkholder, Kendra. Whom shall I fear? Crockett, KY: Rod & Staff, 1996. Pp. 228. EMU, MHL.

Byram, John Arnold. Byrams in America. 2nd ed. Baltimore: Gateway, 1996. Pp. 570. MHL.

Callen, Barry L. God as loving grace: the biblically revealed nature and work of God. Nappanee: Evangel, 1996. Pp. 352. MHL.

Chase, Mary Kinsinger. Christian Garber history. [Portland, IN:

Author, 1996] 1 v. MHL.
Chase, Mary Kinsinger. Johannes Kinsinger genealogy. [Portland, IN: Author, 1996] 1 v. MHL.
Chase, Mary Kinsinger. John Nafziger history. [Portland, IN: Author, 1996.] 1 v. MHL.
Child, William. Learning from the book of nature. Crockett, KY: Rod & Staff, 1996. Pp. 200. EMU, MHL.
Christmas a capella: Mennonite singing . [S.l.]: Glenn Lehman, 1996. 1 audiocassette. EMU.
Classen, Susan. Viviendo las contradicciones: entre buitres y mariposas. Guatemala City: SEMILLA ; Santafé de Bogotá: CLARA, 1996. Pp. 182. MHL.
Cloud of witnesses: rediscovering Anabaptism. Harrisonburg, VA: Mennonite Media Productions, 1996. 1 video. FRE, MLA.
Collection of old letters written by or to Mennonite bishop Moses G. Horning, 1889-1995. Michael Z. Horning, ed. Newmanstown, PA: Horning, 1996. Pp. 76. MHL.
Confession of faith in a Mennonite perspective: summary statement, unison readings. Scottdale: Mennonite Publishing House, 1996. Pp. 11. MHL.
Confession of faith of the Mennonites: church forms and guidelines of the Weaverland Conference; selected scripture texts suitable for funeral services. [Ontario]: Old Order Mennonites, Weaverland Conference- Canada, 1996. Pp. 90. EMU.
Confession of faith of the Mennonites: church forms and guidelines of the Weaverland Conference ; selected scripture texts suitable for funeral service. Ministers' ed. [Ontario]: Old Order Mennonites, Weaverland Conference-Canada, 1996. Pp. 116. EMU.
Cooney, Jerry W. Paraguay: a bibliography of immigration and emigration. Longview, WA: Author, 1996. Pp. 71. MHL.
.Crider, Virginia. Life with an alcoholic: turning trials into triumphs. Harrisonburg, VA: Christian Light, 1996. Pp. 108. EMU, MHL.
Cutman, Marie E. We sat where they sat: Ada and Ida Stoltzfus: thirty- seven and one-half years in the ancient city of Hebron. Morgantown, PA: Masthof, 1996. Pp. 312. EMU, MHL, MLA.
Directory of Civilian Public Service. Washington, DC: NISBCO, 1996. Pp. 459. FRE, MLA.
Directory of congregations and families of the Conservative Mennonite Fellowship in Canada, the United States, and Guatemala, 1996. [Carbon Hill, OH: Conservative Mennonite Fellowship], 1996. Pp. 62. MHL.
Drescher, John M. For the love of marriage. Intercourse, PA: Good Bks., 1996. Pp. 252. EMU, MHL, MLA.
Drescher, John M. Se eu começasse minha família de novo. Campinas, SP: Editora Cristã Unida, 1996. Pp. 58. EMU, MHL.
Drescher, John M. Quando seu filho tem entre 6 e 12 anos. Campinas, SP: Editora Cristã Unida, 1996. Pp. 95. MHL.
Driedger, Leo. Multi-ethnic Canada: identities and inequalities. Toronto: Oxford, 1996. Pp. 352. MHL.
Driedger, Michael D. Mennonites? Heretics? Obedient citizens? Categorizing people in Hamburg and Altona, 1648-1713. Thesis (Ph.D.)—Queen's University, 1996. Pp. 150. MHL.
A Drink from the stream, volume 2. John K. Sheriff & Heather Esau, eds. North Newton: Bethel College, 1996. Pp. 272. MHL, MLA.
Due West: 30 great stories from Alberta, Saskatchewan and Manitoba. Wayne Tefs, ed. Regina: Coteau Books, 1996. Pp. 385. FRE.
Dueck, Adele. Anywhere but here. Red Deer, AB: Red Deer College Press, 1996. Pp. 111. MHL.
Dueck, Helen. Sent into God's world: a Bible study from Acts. (Household of God; yr. 2) (WM/WMSC study guide; 1996-97) Newton: Women in Mission; Elkhart: Women's Missionary and Service Commission, 1996. Pp. 68. EMU, MHL, MLA.
Duerksen, Carol. Living beyond our means: the extravagance of biblical stewardship. (Generation why Bible studies; 2:3) Newton: Faith & Life, 1996. Pp. 36. MLA.
Durnbaugh, Donald F. Fruit of the vine: a history of the Brethren, 1708- 1995. Elgin, IL: Brethren Press, 1996. Pp. 675. EMU.
Dyck, Cornelius J. Introduccion a la Historia Menonita: Una Historia Popular de los Anabautistas y los Menonitas. Marta J. de Mejia, tr. Guatemala City: SEMILLA, 1996. Pp. 465. FRE.
Dyck, Kevin J. Mennonite Life cumulative index, 1946-1995. North Newton: Bethel College, 1996. Pp. 118. FRE, MLA.
Elford, Ricardo and Jim Corbett. The servant church. (Pendle Hill pamphlet; 328) Wallingford, PA: Pendle Hill, 1996. Pp. 45. MHL, MLA.
Enns, Katharine. The Johan Enns family circle III. [Buhler, KS]: Author, 1996. Pp. 99. MLA.
Ens, Anna. In search of unity: Story of the Conference of Mennonites in Manitoba. Winnipeg: CMBC Publications, 1996. Pp. 290. FRE, MHC, MHL.
Ens, Gerhard J. Homeland to hinterland: the changing worlds of the Red River Metis in the nineteenth century. Toronto: Univ. of Toronto, 1996. Pp. 268. MHL.
Entrepreneurs in the faith community: profiles of Mennonites in business. Calvin W. Redekop, Benjamin W. Redekop, eds. Scottdale: Herald, 1996. Pp. 268. FRE, MES, MHC, MHL, MLA.
Epp, Ingrid I. and Harvey L. Dyck. The Peter J. Braun Russian Mennonite Archive, 1803-1920: a research guide. Toronto: Univ. of Toronto, 1996. Pp. 215. FRE, MHC, MHL, MLA.
Epp, Reuben. The spelling of Low German & Plautdietsch: towards an official Plautdietsch orthography. Hillsboro: Reader's Press, 1996. Pp. 167. FRE, MLA.
Eshelman, John B. Descendants of John William Eshelman and Barbara Ann Eshleman: including persons added to the group by marriage. Lancaster: Author, 1996. Pp. 38. MHL.
Estep, William R. The Anabaptist story: an introduction to sixteenth- century Anabaptism. 3rd ed., rev. & enl. Grand Rapids: Eerdmans, 1996. Pp. 332. EMU, MHL, MLA.
Estes, Steven R. To God alone be the honor: a short history of the Willow Springs Mennonite Church. Tiskilwa, IL: The Church, 1996. Pp. 25. MHL.
Exposition 17: a collection of student essays. Linda Marie Gerber, ed. Goshen: Pinchpenny, 1996. Pp. 65. MHL.
Fast, George H. Baptisms in West Prussia, 1773-1804 (alphabetical). [Lynn Lake, MB: Author], 1996. Pp. 40. MHL.
Fast, George H. Baptisms in West Prussia, 1773-1804 (by family). [Lynn Lake, MB: Author], 1996. Pp. 40. MHL.
Ferrell, Barbara. Connections. Dallas: Green Pigs Press, 1996. Pp. 51. MHL.
Fietsroute 65 km: het land van Menno: struibriefke. (Menno Simons 500) Leeuwarden: Stichting Kultuer en Toerisme yn Fryslan, 1996. Pp. 6. EMU.
Fisher, Benuel M. The life of uncle Benny. Morgantown, PA: Author, 1996. Pp. 84. EMU.
Fisher, Wayne L. The Amish in court. New York: Vantage, 1996. Pp. 200. EMU, MHL, MLA.
Fogleman, Aaron Spencer. Hopeful journeys: German immigration, settlement, and political culture in Colonial America, 1717-1775. (Publications of the Pa. German Society; 30) Philadelphia: Univ. of Penn., 1996. Pp. 257. EMU, MHL, MLA.
Foster, Richard J. Oração: O refúgio da alma. Campinas, SP: Editora Cristã Unida, 1996. Pp. 304. MHL.
Frazer, Heather T. and John O'Sullivan. We have just begun to not fight: An oral history of conscientious objectors in Civilian Public Service during World War II. (Twayne's oral history series; 18) New York: Twayne, 1996. Pp. 268. EMU, FRE.
Freed, Stanley L. Leaves from my family tree: finding my way. Morgantown, PA: Masthof, 1996. Pp. 186. EMU, MHL, MLA.
Freeman Academy Auxiliary. Seasoned with love. Kearney, NE: Cookbooks by Morris Press, 1996. Pp. 188. MLA.
Friesen, Bruce K. and John W. Friesen. Perceptions of the Amish way. Dubuque: Kendall/Hunt, 1996. Pp. 156. FRE, MHL, MLA.
Friesen, J. Stanley. Missionary responses to tribal religions at Edinburgh, 1910. New York: P. Lang, 1996. Pp. 222. MHL.

Friesen, John. Field of broken dreams: Mennonite settlement in Seminole, West Texas/Ein Feld der Gebrochenen Träume: Mennonitische Siedlung in Seminole im Westen von Texas. Winnipeg: privately printed, 1996. Pp. 48, 26. FRE.

Friesen, Rudy P. with Sergey Shmakin. Into the past: buildings of the Mennonite Commonwealth. Winnipeg: Raduga, 1996. Pp. 352. EMU, FRE, MHC, MHL, MLA.

Garrett, Ottie. The guidebook to Amish communities & business directory. Kalona, IA: Hitching Post Enterprises, 1996. Pp. 271. EMU, MHL, MLA.

Geary, Patrick J. Medieval Germany in America. Washington, D.C.: German Historical Institute, 1996. Pp. 44. MLA.

Gingerich, Rosalee. Rosalee's recipes: a compilation of favorite completely detailed, easy-to-follow recipes. Goshen: Author, 1996. Pp. 287. MHL.

Global mission tapestry, 1997-98. Elkhart: Menn. Board of Mission, [1996]. Pp. 84. EMU.

God of all people. Harrisonburg, VA: Eastern Mennonite High School, 1996. 1 compact disc.

Godward: personal stories of grace. Ted Koontz, ed. Scottdale: Herald, 1996. Pp. 192. EMU, FRE, MHC, MLA.

Going down memory lane. [Grabill, IN: Joe & Catherine Graber, 1996]. Pp. 104. MHL.

Good, Elaine W. Teacher's guide for Four seasons series. Intercourse, PA: Good Bks., 1996. Pp. 25. MHL.

Good, Gary. Glaube, Hoffnung, und Liebe: faith, hope, and love. Morgantown, PA: Masthof, 1996. Pp. 159. EMU.

Good, Lewis C., Jr. History of the Washington Baltimore District. [S.l.]: Washington-Baltimore District [Lancaster Mennonite Conference], 1996. Pp. 166. EMU.

Good, Phyllis Pellman and Louise Stoltzfus. Recipes from Central Market: favorite recipes from the standholders of the nation's oldest farmer's market, Central Market in Lancaster, Pennsylvania. Intercourse, PA: Good Bks., 1996. Pp. 224. MHL.

Graber Miller, Keith. Wise as serpents, innocent as doves: American Mennonites engage Washington. Knoxville: Univ. of Tenn., 1996. Pp. 314. EMU, FRE, MLA.

Great is thy faithfulness: 50 years of Rest Haven, 1946-1996. Steinbach: Rest Haven Nursing Home, [1996]. Pp. 102. MHL.

Greiser, David. The Franconia Conference pulpit: evolution of a Mennonite preaching tradition. Thesis (Ph.D.)—Southern Baptist Theological Seminary, 1996. Pp. 314. EMU.

Gundy, Jeff. A community of memory: my days with George and Clara. Urbana: Univ. of Illinois, 1996. Pp. 158. EMU, FRE, MHL, MLA.

Hacker, Ray K. The Eastern Mennonite Associated Libraries and Archives directory. Morgantown, PA: Masthof, 1996. Pp. 27. MHL, MLA.

Hall, Eddy. Decide for peace: a guide for personal Bible study and reflection on conscientious objection. Newton: Faith & Life, 1996. Pp. 37. MLA.

Harder, Geraldine Gross. When apples are ripe: the story of Clayton Kratz. Rev. ed. Hillsboro: Partnership Book Services, 1996. Pp. 189. MHL, MLA.

Harder, Leland. The house of Warkentin: the Jacob B. & Agatha Wiens Warkentin family legacy. [North Newton: Author, 1996]. Pp. 35. MLA.

Harper, Karen. Dark road home. New York: Signet, 1996. Pp. 444. MHL.

Hassan, Hazel Nice. One man's family: descendants of Daniel H. Deter (1852-1943) and his wife Elsie Steiner (1859-1938). Goshen: Author, 1996. Pp. 135. MHL.

Hathaway, Mark B. Camp Terry: a case study in Civilian Public Service. Thesis—Carroll College, 1996. Pp. 90. MLA.

Hayama Missionary Seminar (37th: 1996: Amagi Sanso). Reaching the secular mind for Christ: practical help for evangelism in Japan. Tokyo: Tokyo Mission Research Institute, 1996. Pp. 100. EMU, MHL, MLA.

Headings, Daniel J. and Saloma R. Headings. The descendants of Ezra & Lydia (King) Headings: Headings' history, happenings, and genealogy. Buffalo, MO: Authors, 1996. Pp. 426. MHL.

Hein, Marvin. On the shoulders of giants: a group study of our faith heritage. (Mennonite Brethren core value studies) Winnipeg: Kindred, 1996. Pp. 73. FRE.

Heinrichs, Daniel. Adventures of a Mennonite: from the dry thirties out into the world. Winnipeg: Henderson Bks., 1996. Pp. 269. FRE, MHL.

Herr, Ethel. The dove and the rose. Minneapolis: Bethany House, 1996. Pp. 334. MHL.

Hershberger, Noah. Salamonie Farm. Cleveland: Goosefoot Acres, 1996. Pp. 233. MHL.

Hershberger, William C. Happy life. Altamont, TN: Ambassador, 1996. Pp. 140. EMU.

Hess, J. Daniel. Gifts handed down. Scottdale: Herald, 1996. Pp. 112 p. FRE, MHC, MHL.

Hiele, Gerke J. J. van. Een doperse visie: op zoek naar een nieuw concept. Amsterdam: Algemene Doopsgezinde Societeit, 1996. Pp. 11. MHC.

Hildebrand, Jacob R. A Mennonite journal, 1862-1865: a father's account of the Civil war in the Shenandoah Valley. John R. Hildebrand, ed. Shippensburg, PA: Burd Street, 1996. Pp. 100. EMU, FRE, MHL, MLA.

Hochstetler, Lester and Elva Hochstetler. Be joyful and sing: Let's enjoy singing songbook. Millersburg, OH: Authors, 1996. Pp. 70. MHL.

Hofer, Samuel. Born Hutterite. Saskatoon: Hofer Publishers, 1996. 3 cassettes. MHL.

Hofman, Beno. Doopsgezind Friesland, het land van Menno Simons. Leeuwarden: Stichting Kultuer en Toerisme yn Fryslan, 1996. Pp. 83. EMU.

Holsinger, Justus Geil. Riding through the years with Grandpa: horse- drawn surrey to 747's. Hesston, KS: Author, [1996]. Pp. 169. EMU.

Hoobler, Dorothy and Thomas Hoobler. The German American family album. New York: Oxford, 1996. Pp. 127. MLA.

Hoon, Jos de, Simeon Bodden, and Peter Becker. Bibliography of hymns and Gregorian chant from the sixteenth century to 1991. Utrecht: Hogeschool voor de Kunsten, 1996. Pp. 657. MHL.

Hoover, Lena and Lester M. Hoover. Descendants of Francis B. and Magdalena Musser Weaver, 1835-1996. [Lititz, PA: Authors], 1996. Pp. 159. MHL.

Hoover, W. Paul. My memories in poetry and prose: life at Five Points, Goshen, Indiana. Nappanee: Evangel, 1996. Pp. 171. MHL.

Horst, Mary Ann. Reminiscings of Mennonite life in Waterloo County: reflections on the journey from the Old Order Mennonite world to modern times. Kitchener, ON: Author, 1996. Pp. 79. MHL.

Horton, Roberta. An Amish adventure: a workbook for color in quilts. 2nd ed. Lafayette, CA: Author, 1996. Pp. 78. MHL.

Hostetler, Eldon. Strong drink friend or foe: a study of alcohol use in the Milford Mennonite community. [Milford, NE: Author, 1996]. 1 v. MHL.

Hostetler, John A. The Hutterites in North America. 3rd ed. Fort Worth: Harcourt Brace College, 1996. Pp. 158. MHL.

Hostetler, Richard. Backyard birds and animals: for children and people of all ages who enjoy birds. Goshen: Author, 1996. Pp. 17. MHL.

Hulvey, June Good. The William Good family: tracing this Good family from Hasli Valley, Switzerland to the Shenandoah Valley of Virginia. Rev. ed. Harrisonburg, VA: Author, 1996. Pp. 1145. EMU.

Humphrey, John T. Pennsylvania births, Lebanon County, 1714-1800. Washington, DC: Humphrey Pub., 1996. Pp. 267. MHL.

Hunsberger, Gordon. Growing old begins young: planning to enjoy old age. St. Jacobs, ON: Author, 1996. Pp. 110. MHL, MLA.

Hutterite CO's in World War One: stories, diaries and other accounts from the United States military camps. 1996 ed. Patrick Murphy, ed. Hawley, MN: Spring Prairie Printing, 1996. Pp. 154. MLA.

Hymnal companion. Elgin, IL: Brethren Press; Newton: Faith & Life; Scottdale: Mennonite Publishing House, 1996. Pp. 752. EMU, MLA.

Hymnal masterworks: organ & instruments. Shirley Sprunger King & the Deknatal Consort. Newton: Faith & Life, 1996. 1 sound cassette and 1 compact disc.

Index to Burning Bush, 1966-1995: (thirty years). Chambersburg, PA: Mennonite Heritage Center, 1996. Pp. 124. EMU.

Isaak, Paul. A family history of Leonhard and Minna Dirks. Deer Creek, OK: Author, 1996. 1 v. MLA.

Israel, Fred L. The Amish. New York: Chelsea House, 1996. Pp. 100. MHL.

Janzen, David. Fire, salt, and peace: intentional Christian communities alive in North America. Evanston, IL: Shalom Mission Communities, 1996. Pp. 207. MLA.

Jemima's secret dreams. Aylmer, ON: Pathway, 1996. Pp. 231. EMU, MHL, MLA.

Kaufman, Gordon D. God, mystery, diversity: Christian theology in a pluralistic world. Minneapolis: Fortress, 1996. Pp. 233. MHL, MLA.

Kaufmann, Britt. Grace. Goshen: Pinchpenny, 1996. Pp. 19. MHL.

Kennel, Ronald L. Journey home: Peter Kennel Sr.: reflections on his life and times. Goshen: Author, 1996. Pp. 141. MHL.

King, Frank R. A flight to the Arctic: bearing good news. Morgantown, PA: Masthof, 1996. Pp. 110. EMU.

Kinsley, Robert L. Alexander Mack: his greatest legacy. Nappanee: Evangel, 1996. Pp. 95. EMU, MHL.

Klassen, William. Judas: betrayer or friend of Jesus? Minneapolis: Fortress, 1996. Pp. 238. MHL.

Köhler, Hans-Joachim. Bibliographie der Flugschriften des 16. Jahrhunderts, Bd. 3: Druckbeschreibungen M-S. Tübingen: Bibliotheca Academica, 1996. Pp. 541. MHL.

Kopp, Herb. Authentic living: bringing belief and lifestyle together: studies in James. (Luminaire studies) Winnipeg: Kindred, 1996. Pp. 127. FRE.

Kraus, Harry Lee. Fated genes. Wheaton, IL: Crossway Books, 1996. Pp. 382. EMU.

Kraus, Mildred Brunk and Harry L. Kraus. Martin A. Lahman family history. Harrisonburg, VA: Authors, 1996. Pp. 326. EMU.

Kraybill, Ronald S. Peacebuilders in Zimbabwe: an Anabaptist paradigm for conflict transformation. Thesis—Univ. of Cape Town, 1996. Pp. 276. MLA.

Krehbiel, James W. References to Swiss Russian Mennonite families before 1874. Charleston, IL: Author, 1996. Pp. 165. MLA.

Kreider, Rachel W. and J. Evan Kreider. A genealogy prepared for the descendants of Lloyd and Adelia (Stover) Kreider. Rev. Goshen: Author, 1996. Pp. 175. EMU, MHL, MLA.

Kreider, Robert S., David J. Rempel Smucker, Roy H. Umble. An Ebersole story: the ancestry and descendants of Abraham D. Ebersole (1822-1892) and Anna Rutt (1827-1904). Goshen: Ebersole Family Assoc., 1996. Pp. 114. EMU, MHL, MLA.

Kurtz kitchen classics: a compilation of recipes by descendants of John Esley & Elizabeth Lehman Kurtz. Kearney, NE: Cookbooks by Morris, 1996. Pp. 214. EMU.

Kutz, Jacob Alexander. My life in the Ukraine & Canada as I remember it. Peterborough, ON: Ingrid Harder, 1996. Pp. 69. MHL.

Lehman, Bradley P. Hymnal concordance. Scottdale: Mennonite Publishing House, 1996. Pp. 517. FRE.

Lehman, Bradley P. and Gerry Leatherman. Hymnal concordance. Software guide: this software package will help you find any English word in the hymns of Hymnal: a worship book ; DOS program by Bradley P. Lehman ; Windows program by Gerry Leatherman. [Scottdale]: Mennonite Pub. House, 1996. Pp. 23. MHL.

Lehman, Daniel R. Endeavor of faith: a history of the Mennonite Messianic mission voluntary service units, 1967-1974. Ephrata: Eastern Mennonite Publications, 1996. Pp. 199. MHL.

Een leven vol gevaar: Menno Simons (1496-1561): leidsman der doopers. Amsterdam: Algemene Doopsgezinde Societeit, 1996. Pp. 96. EMU, MHC, MHL, MLA.

Lind, Millard C. Ezekiel. (Believers church Bible commentary) Scottdale: Herald, 1996. Pp. 413. FRE, MHL, MLA.

Living mirror: Young Mennonite writers. Cincinnati: Mennonite Arts Weekend, 1996. Pp. 32. MLA.

Loewen, Harry and Steven Nolt. Through fire & water: an overview of Mennonite history. Scottdale: Herald, 1996. Pp. 350. FRE, MES, MHL, MLA.

Longhurst, John. Making the news: a media relations manual for non- profit organizations, Winnipeg: Wildflower Communications, 1996. Pp. 75. MHL.

The Low countries: arts and society in Flanders and the Netherlands: a yearbook, 1996-97. Rekkem: Stichting Ons Erfdeel, 1996. Pp. 320. MLA.

Lynd, Alice and Staughton Lynd. Liberation theology for Quakers. (Pendle Hill pamphlet; 326) Wallingford, PA: Pendle Hill, 1996. Pp. 36. MHL, MLA.

Marnef, Guido. Antwerp in the age of Reformation: underground Protestantism in a commercial metropolis, 1550-1577. Baltimore: Johns Hopkins, 1996. Pp. 304. MHL, MLA.

Marshall, Jay W. The 10 commandments & Christian community. Scottdale: Herald, 1996. Pp. 128. MES, MHL, MLA.

Martin, Eber S. Taking another look. Columbiana, OH: Americana Creatives, 1996. Pp. 158. MHL.

Martin, Terry. The Mennonites and the Russian state Duma, 1905-1914. Seattle: Jackson School of International Studies, Univ. of Washington, 1996. Pp. 77. FRE, MHL, MLA.

Martin, Verna M. Stories for every season: 52 stories for young readers. Harrisonburg, VA: Christian Light, 1996. Pp. 267. MHL.

Mast, Don. Eunice: she loved life. Morgantown, PA: Masthof, 1996. Pp. 166. EMU, MHL, MLA.

McDill, S. Rutherford Jr. Parenting the prodigal. Scottdale: Herald, 1996. Pp. 120. MHL, MLA.

McKelvey, Susan. The classic American quilt collection: creative ideas for color and fabric. Emmaus, PA; Rodale, 1996. Pp. 122. MHL.

Melodies of the heart. Fredericksburg, IN: John Paul Raber, [1996]. Pp. 176. MHL.

Menno Simons. Confession of my enlightenment, conversion, and calling; The new birth and who they are who have the promise. Irvin B. Horst, ed. Lancaster: Lancaster Mennonite Historical Society, 1996. Pp. 53. EMU, MHL, MLA.

Mennonite Board of Missions. Benin: giving God the glory. [Elkhart]: MBM, [1996?]. 1 kit. MHL.

Mennonite theology in face of modernity: essays in honor of Gordon D. Kaufman. Alain Epp Weaver, ed. North Newton: Bethel College, 1996. Pp. 275. EMU, MHL, MLA.

Mennonites in Canada: a media guide. John Longhurst, ed. Winnipeg: Mennonites in Canada ; MCC Canada, 1996. Pp. 56. MHC.

Ein Mennonitisches Glaubensbekenntnis. Julia Hildebrandt, tr. Winnipeg: CMBC, [1996?]. Pp. 141. EMU.

Meyer, Carolyn. Gideon's people. San Diego: Harcourt Brace, 1996. Pp. 297. MHL.

Michel, Barbara. Search for Eden. New Wilmington, PA: Son-Rise, 1996. Pp. 237. MHL.

Mihalas, Dimitri. Depression and spiritual growth. (Pendle Hill pamphlet; 327) Wallingford, PA: Pendle Hill, 1996. Pp. 31. MHL, MLA.

Miller, Alfred D. Descendants of David E. Miller (known as Mony Dave) and Catherine J. Miller, 1867-1994. Apple Creek, OH: Author, 1996. Pp. 157. MHL.

Miller, DeVon. Kansas-Oklahoma Amish directory. Millersburg, OH: Abana Book Services, 1996. Pp. 86. MHL.

Miller, DeVon. Missouri Amish directory, 1996. Millersburg, OH: Abana Book Services, 1996. Pp. 191. MHL.

Miller, Edwin D. Miller family history and descendants of Henry B. Miller. [Wellman, IA]: Author, 1996. Pp. 281. MHL.

Miller, J. R. Whom the Lord loveth: a manual of comfort for the tested and tried. Crockett, KY: Rod & Staff, 1996. Pp. 192. MHL.

Minnesota country favorites. Lenexa, KS: Cookbook Pub., 1996. Pp. 140. MHL.

Mishler, Dorsa J. and Russell Krabill. The Prairie Street Mennonite Church story: 1871-1996. Elkhart: The Church, 1996. Pp. 98. EMU, MHL, MLA.

Morrow, Merilyn B. Fike. Christian Fike and his descendants. Temple, PA: Author, 1996. Pp. 1348. MHL.

Mosher, Steve. God's power, Jesus' faith, and world mission: a study in Romans. Scottdale: Herald, 1996. Pp. 360. FRE, MHL, MLA.

Mosley, Don. With our own eyes. Scottdale: Herald, 1996. Pp. 300. MHL, MLA.

Munro, Ken. Amish justice. Bird-in-Hand, PA: Gaslight, 1996. Pp. 135. MHL.

Murphy, Nancey and George F. R. Ellis. On the moral nature of the universe: theology, cosmology, and ethics. Minneapolis: Fortress, 1996. Pp. 268. MHL.

Murphy, Robert C. The unconscious. (Pendle Hill Pamphlet; 325) Wallingford, PA: Pendle Hill, 1996. Pp. 32. MHL, MLA.

Myers, Tamar. No use dying over spilled milk: a Pennsylvania Dutch mystery with recipes. New York: Dutton, 1996. Pp. 260. MHL.

Nee, Watchman. A vida normal da igreja Cristã. 4th ed. Campinas, SP: Editora Cristã Unida, 1996. Pp. 155. MHL.

Neufeld, Christine. Peace heroes. (Fast lane Bible studies) Newton: Faith & Life, 1996. Pp. 48. MLA.

Nickel, Barbara K. The secret wish of Nanerl Mozart. Toronto: Second Story, 1996. Pp. 202. MHL.

Nickel, James R. and Dale Shenk. Picture this: New Testament personalities/Anabaptist portraits: teacher's guide with student reproducible sheets. Scottdale: Mennonite Publishing House, 1996. Pp. 71. MHL.

Nyce, Dorothy Yoder. India kaleidoscope. Holy respect, no less. Goshen: D.Y. Nyce, [1996?] 1 videocassette. EMU, MLA.

Nystrom, Carolyn. O Espírito Santo em mim. Campinas, SP: Editora Cristã Unida, 1996. Pp. 30. MHL.

Nystrom, Carolyn. O que é a oração. Campinas, SP: Editora Cristã Unida, 1996. Pp. 30. MHL.

Our CPS stories: Prairie Street Mennonite Church in Civilian Public Service, 1941-1946. Dorsa J. Mishler, ed. Elkhart: The Church, 1996. Pp. 105. EMU, MHL, MLA.

Ott, Bernhard. Missionarische Gemeinde werden: der Weg der Evangelischen Täufergemeinden. Uster: Verlag ETG, 1996. Pp. 332. FRE.

Oved, Yaacov. The witness of the brothers: a history of the Bruderhof. New Brunswick: Transaction, 1996. Pp. 342. MHL, MLA.

Oxford encyclopedia of the Reformation. Hans J. Hillerbrand, ed. New York: Oxford, 1996. 4 v. MHL, MLA.

The pacifist impulse in historical perspective. Harvey L. Dyck, ed. Toronto: Univ. of Toronto, 1996. Pp. 444. FRE, MHL, MLA.

Pellman, Hubert R. A Pellman family history: Leroy S. & Elizabeth Lauver Pellman and their children, ancestors and descendants. [S.l.] : Author, 1996. Pp. 284. EMU.

Penner, Katy. The Penner family: faithful through adversity. Saskatoon: Author, 1996. Pp. 490. MHC.

Penner, Randy. A harvest of memories. Greendale, WI: Reiman, 1996. Pp. 114. MLA.

Peters-Pries, Pam. Living unplugged: young adults, faith and the uncommon life. Newton: Faith & Life, 1996. Pp. 144. FRE, MHC, MHL, MLA.

Pickle, Linda Schelbitzki. Contented among strangers: rural German- speaking women and their families in the nineteenth-century Midwest. Urbana: Univ. of Illinois, 1996. Pp. 311. MLA.

Plain circle tune book. John Bayer, Jr., comp. Dayton, OH: Bayer, 1996. Pp. 220. MHL.

Platt, LaVonne Godwin. In memory of Bela Banerjee: a coda to her biography. Newton: Wordsworth, 1996. Pp. 40. MLA.

Plett, Harvey. Seeking to be faithful: the story of the Evangelical Mennonite Conference. Steinbach: The Conference, 1996. Pp. 188. EMU, MHC, MHL, MLA.

Profiles of Anabaptist women: sixteenth-century reforming pioneers. C. Arnold Snyder, Linda A. Huebert Hecht, eds. (Studies in women and religion; 3) Waterloo: Wilfrid Laurier Univ., 1996. Pp. 438. MES, MHL, MLA.

Quillin, Patrick. Amish folk medicine. North Canton, OH: Leader Co., 1996. Pp. 238. MHL.

Radcliff, David. Does God fight? Violence in the Bible. (Generation why Bible studies; 2:1) Newton: Faith & Life, 1996. Pp. 44. MLA.

Ratzlaff, Gerhard. Menno Simons' Vermächtnis in einem lateinamerikanischen-multikulturellen Kontext: das Beispiel Paraguay. Amsterdam: Algemene Doopsgezinde Societeit, 1996. Pp. 26. MHC.

Redekop, Gloria Neufeld. The work of their hands: Mennonite women's societies in Canada. (Studies in women and religion; 2) Waterloo: Wilfrid Laurier Univ., 1996. Pp. 172. EMU, FRE, MHC, MHL.

Regehr, T. D. Mennonites in Canada, 1939-1970: a people transformed. Toronto: Univ. of Toronto, 1996. Pp. 563. EMU, FRE, MHC, MHL, MLA.

Reinhold-Scheuermann, Ineke. Duiven en stootvogels: Menno en zijn gezin onderweg. Amsterdam: Doopsgezinde Jeugd Centrale, 1996. Pp. 154. EMU.

Religion and mass media: audiences and adaptations. Daniel A. Stout, Judith M. Buddenbaum, eds. Thousand Oaks: Sage, 1996. Pp. 294. MHL.

Rempel, Henry. A trek from despair to renewal: the peoples of Africa and the burden of debt. (MCC occasional paper; 22) [Akron]: MCC, 1996. Pp. 16. EMU, FRE, MHL, MLA.

Rempel, Johann G. My village home Nieder Chortitza - Mein Heimatdorf Nieder Chortitza. Melitta Friesen, Helene Neufeld, trs. [S.l.: Translators], 1996. Pp. 73. MHC.

Reshaping your marriage. A. Don Augsburger, ed. Morgantown, PA: Masthof, 1996. Pp. 153. MLA.

Rice, Timothy. Deep Run Mennonite Church East: a 250 year pilgrimage, 1746-1996. Morgantown, PA: Masthof, 1996. Pp. 144, 108. EMU, MHL, MLA.

Richard, Kent E. The Hablützel/Ablitzer connection: ancestors and descendants = Le rapprochement Hablützel/Ablitzer: l'ascendance et descendants. Talmage, PA: Author, 1996. Pp. 78. MHL.

Rogall, Joachim. Land der grossen Ströme: von Polen nach Litauen. (Deutsche Geschichte im Osten; 8) Berlin: Siedler Verlag, 1996. Pp. 573. MHL.

Rohrer, Martha. Historias Bíblicas para leer. Crockett, KY: Rod & Staff, 1996. Pp. 135. MHL.

Ropp, Steve. A speck in the universe: the Bible on self-esteem and peer pressure. (Generation why Bible studies; 2:4) Newton: Faith & Life, 1996. Pp. 40. MLA.

Rupp, Anne Neufeld. Growing together: understanding and nurturing your child's faith journey. Newton: Faith & Life, 1996. Pp. 261. MHC, MHL, MLA.

Ruth, Jay. Here abiding: the Deep Run Mennonite story. Perkasie, PA: The Church, 1996. 1 videocassette. EMU.

Ruth, Merle. Merto para vivir con Cristo. Crockett, KY: Rod & Staff, 1996. Pp. 78. MHL.

Sauder, Elizabeth W. Pleasant memories: a tribute to my parents, Samuel R. & Elizabeth (Good) Weaver. New Holland, PA: Author, 1996. Pp. 77. EMU.

Saul, Norman E. Concord and conflict: the United States and Russia, 1867-1914. Lawrence: Univ. Press of KS, 1996. Pp. 654. MHL, MLA.

Sawatzky, Reynold. Ancestors Franz and Katarina Günther Sawatzky, Henry and Anna Wiebe Klassen: from the Vistula delta to the Ukrainian steppe to the Canadian prairies to the United States: the genealogy and history of our ancestry and stories of the family of Jacob F. and Cornelia Klassen Sawatzky. Rev. [Goshen: Author], 1996. Pp. 178. MHL.

Scattering sunshine: character-building stories for children.

Harrisonburg, VA: Christian Light, 1996. Pp. 144. EMU, MHL.

Schlabach, Gerald. For the joy set before us: ethics of self-denying love in Augustinian perspective. Thesis (Ph.D.)—Univ. of Notre Dame, 1996. Pp. 306. MHL.

Schlabach, Mose A. and Freda Schlabach. Family history of Christian C. Schlabach and Dena I. Miller, 1858-1995, in chronological order with alphabetical index. Millersburg, OH: Authors, 1996. Pp. 165. MHL.

Schlabach, Mose A. and Freda Schlabach. Yoder School history: "Limpytown", 1869-1954. Sugarcreek, OH: Carlisle Printing, 1996. Pp. 84. MHL.

Schroeder, David. How to read the Bible: building skills for Bible study. (Generation why Bible studies; 1:8) Newton: Faith & Life, 1996. Pp. 40. MLA.

Schroeder, William and Helmut T. Huebert. Mennonite historical atlas. 2nd ed. Winnipeg: Springfield, 1996. Pp. 183. FRE, MHC, MHL.

Scott, Stephen. An introduction to Old Order and Conservative Mennonite groups. (People's Place book; 12) Intercourse, PA: Good Bks., 1996. Pp. 252. EMU, FRE, MES, MHC, MHL, MLA.

Shelly, Patricia J. Let all within us praise! Dramatic resources for worship. Newton, Faith & Life, 1996. Pp. 209. MHC, MLA.

Shelly, Patricia J. Let all within us praise! songs for worship and celebration. Newton: Faith & Life, 1996. Pp. 52. MHC, MLA.

Shenk, Dale and Ed Zuercher. I confess! : responses to wrong/confession of faith: teacher's guide with student reproducible sheets. (Link youth Bible studies) Scottdale: Herald, 1996. Pp. 71. MHL.

Shenk, Gerald and Sara Wenger Shenk. Meditations for new parents. Scottdale: Herald, 1996. Pp. 77. MHC, MHL, MLA.

Shenk, Joseph C. Silver thread: the ups and downs of a Mennonite family in mission (1895-1995). Intercourse, PA: Bks., 1996. Pp. 250. EMU, FRE, MHL, MLA.

Shenk, Lois Landis. The story of Ephrata Mennonite School. Ephrata, PA: The School, 1996. Pp. 52. MHL.

Shirk, Erica Hege. One farm, two wars, three generations: the Hege family story. Morgantown, PA: Masthof, 1996. Pp. 88. EMU, MHL, MLA.

Shott, James R. Abigail. Scottdale: Herald, 1996. Pp. 144. MHL.

Shott, James R. Bathsheba. Scottdale: Herald, 1996. Pp. 150. MHL.

Showalter, Rode and Sarón Miller. Aprendiendo a pintar. Crockett, KY: Rod & Staff, 1996. Pp. 32. MHL.

Sider, Ronald J. Genuine Christianity. Grand Rapids: Zondervan, 1996. Pp. 183. MHL.

Siegrist, Joanne Hess. Mennonite women of Lancaster County: a story in photographs from 1855-1935. Intercourse, PA: Good Bks., 1996. Pp. 220. MHC, MHL, MLA.

Sirluck, Ernest. First generation: an autobiography. Toronto: Univ. of Toronto, 1996. Pp. 409. MHL.

Smith, Daniel. Love for the Saviour. Mary Schlabach, tr. Millersburg, OH: Em & Mary Schlabach, 1996. Pp. 63. MHL.

Smith, Elaine Spires. Index to cemeteries of Elkhart County, Indiana, vol. 1. Elkhart: Elkhart County Genealogical Society, 1996. Pp. 31. MHL.

Smucker, Barbara. Selina and the bear paw quilt. New York: Crown, 1996. 1 v. MHL.

Smucker, Donovan E. Jerome M. Smucker: pioneer Ohio Mennonite entrepreneur. Lima, OH: Fairway, 1996. Pp. 60. MHL, MLA.

Snyder, Eleanor and Susan Prics. Loving God. (Living stones) Newton: Faith & Life, 1996. Pp. 205. MLA.

Sollenberger, David. By water and the word. Elgin, IL: Brethren Press, 1996. 1 videocassette. EMU.

Sporen van Menno: het veranderende beeld van Menno Simons en de Nederlandse mennisten. Krommenie: Knijnenberg, 1996. Pp. 168. EMU.

Stassen, Glen H., D. M. Yeager, and John Howard Yoder. Authentic transformation: a new vision of Christ and culture. Nashville: Abingdon, 1996. Pp. 299. MHL.

Stoll, Bill and Barbara Stoll. Descendants of Mike J. Miller (Kansas Mike) and Barbara J. Yoder, 1876 to 1996. Abbeville, SC: Authors, 1996. Pp. 195. MHL.

Stoll, Elmo and Elizabeth Hershberger Bauman. Loving your enemies. Milverton, ON: Master's International Ministries, 1996. Pp. 48. MHL.

Stoll, Joseph. Sunshine and shadow: our seven years in Honduras. Aylmer, ON: Author, 1996. Pp. 464. EMU, MHL.

Stoltzfus, Louise and Dawn J. Ranck. A quilter's Christmas cookbook. Intercourse, PA: Good Bks., 1996. Pp. 348. MHL.

Stutzman, Rose Mary. How can this be? Table devotions for advent. Scottdale: Mennonite Publishing House, 1996. Pp. 40. MHL.

Suderman, Robert J. Re-thinking the mission of the church in the global city. Winnipeg: Author, 1996. 1 v. MHC.

Suter, Scott Hamilton. Tradition & fashion: cabinetmaking in the Upper Shenandoah Valley, 1850-1900. Dayton, VA: Shenandoah Valley Folk Art & Heritage Center, 1996. Pp. 47. EMU.

Swiss ancestral tree: Berne, Adams County, Indiana and vicinity including Wells County, Indiana; a compilation of the earliest Swiss settlers and their descendants. [Berne, IN: Berne Public Library], 1996. 22 v. MHL.

Testa, Randy-Michael. In the valley of the shadow: an elegy to Lancaster County. Hanover, NH: University Press of New England, 1996. Pp. 79. MHL, MLA.

Thompson, Bard. Humanists and reformers: a history of the Renaissance and Reformation. Grand Rapids: Eerdmans, 1996. Pp. 742. MHL.

To see each other's good. Dorothy Yoder Nyce, ed. Goshen: Editor, 1996. Pp. 147. EMU, MHL, MLA.

Toews, Paul. Mennonites in American society, 1930-1970: modernity and the persistence of religious community. (Mennonite experience in America; 4) Scottdale: Herald, 1996. Pp. 441. FRE, MES, MHL, MLA.

Towne, Marian K. Dreaming the impossible dream: the first thirty years of the Edyvean Repertory Theatre at Christian Theological Seminary, Indianapolis, Indiana. Freeman: Pine Hill Press, 1996. Pp. 220. MLA.

Treasured Mennonite recipes. Series II. Lancaster: Fox Chapel, MCC, 1996. Pp. 224. EMU, FRE, MLA.

Troyer, Andrew M. Bring back the bluebirds: even on your hand! Rev. Conneautville, PA: Bird's Paradise, 1996. Pp. 32. MHL.

Troyer, Les. And the streams overflowed. Boone, NC: Wordcrafters ; Author, 1996. Pp. 40. EMU, MHL.

Troyer, Nancy. Rudy Troyer genealogy, 1877-1995. Fredericksburg, OH; Author, 1996. Pp. 132. MHL.

Tuesday night, or Frog and toad are lovers. Goshen: Pinchpenny, 1996. Pp. 56. MHL.

Twenty stories for children. Aylmer, ON: Pathway, 1996. Pp. 160. EMU, MHL, MLA.

Umble, Diane Zimmerman. Holding the line: the telephone in Old Order Mennonite and Amish life. Baltimore: Johns Hopkins, 1996. Pp. 192. EMU, FRE, MHL, MLA.

Unity amidst diversity: Mennonite Central Committee at 75. Robert S. Kreider, Ronald J. R. Mathies, eds. Akron: MCC, 1996. Pp. 181. EMU, FRE, MHC, MHL.

Unrau, Jake with Johann D. Funk. Living in the way: the pilgrimage of Jake & Trudie Unrau. Winnipeg: CMBC Publications, 1996. Pp. 149. FRE, MHC.

Unrau, Ruth. Index to obituaries in the Christlicher Bundesbote, 1882- 1947. North Newton: Bethel College, 1996. Pp. 99. MHC, MLA.

Unrau, Ruth. A time to bind and a time to loose: A history of the General Conference Mennonite Church mission involvement in India from 1900-1995. Newton: General Conference Mennonite Church Commission on Overseas Mission, 1996. Pp. 233. FRE, MES, MHC, MLA.

VanWingen, Peter M. and Belinda D. Urquiza. Standard citation forms for published bibliographies and catalogs used in rare book cataloging. 2nd ed. Washington, DC: Library of Congress, 1996. Pp. 216. MHL.

Vermigli, Pietro Martire. Philosophical works: on the relation of philosophy to theology. Joseph C. McLelland, ed. Kirksville, MO: 16th Century Journal, 1996. Pp. 353. MHL.

Visser, Piet. Godtslasterlijck ende pernicieus: de rol van boekdrukkers en boekverkopers in de verspreiding van dissidente religieuze en filosofische denkbeelden in Nederland in de tweede helft van de zeventiende eeuw. [Amsterdam]: P. Visser, 1996. Pp. 39. EMU, MHL.

Visser, Piet and Mary S. Sprunger. Menno Simons: places, portraits and progeny. Altona: Friesens, 1996. Pp. 168. EMU, FRE, MHL, MLA.

Voolstra, Sjouke. Menno Simons (1496-1561): leven, beeld en boodschap. Landsmeer: Author, 1996. Pp. 47. EMU, MLA.

Voth, Nada. Heinrich J. A. Voth, 1864-1930 and Katharina Unruh, 1859- 1893, Helena Schmidt, 1866-1942. [Walton, KS: Author, 1996]. 1 v. MLA.

Voth, Nada. Heinrich J. Schroeder, 1856 to 1945 and Eva Pankratz, 1853 to 1913. [Walton, KS: Author, 1996]. 1 v. MLA.

Waardevol oud papier: feestbundel bij het tienjarig bestaan van Bubb Kuyper Veilingen Boeken en Grafiek, 1986-1996. Nop Maas, ed. Haarlem: B. Kuyper, 1996. Pp. 339. EMU.

Watson, Mary K. Niles. Katharina Dalke Penner biography. [Arlington, TX]: Author, 1996. Pp. 17. MLA.

Weaver, George. Christian home. Crockett, KY: Rod & Staff, 1996. Pp. 88. EMU.

Weber, Ephraim. Ephraim Weber's letters home 1902-1955: letters from Ephraim Weber to Leslie Staebler of Waterloo County. Hildi Froese Tiessen, Paul Gerard Tiessen, eds. Waterloo: mlr editions, 1996. Pp. 234. MHL.

Weber, Jürgen. Die Altanischen in Kanada: Geschichte und sakralisierte Identität einer weltabgewandten religiösen Gemeindshaft. Hamburg: Verlag Dr. Kovac, 1996. Pp. 343. MHL.

Welsh, Carol. An annotated guide to the Chronicles of Oklahoma, 1921- 1994. Mary Ann Blochowiak, ed. Oklahoma City: Oklahoma Historical Society, 1996. Pp. 324. MLA.

Welty, Lavon and Sandra Drescher-Lehman. Living faith: a practical religion/God is with us: teacher's guide with student reproducible sheets. (Link youth Bible studies) Scottdale: Herald, 1996. Pp. 71. MHL.

Wenig-Horswell, Judy. Drawing: Côte d'Ivoire. Goshen: Pinchpenny, 1996. Pp. 23. MHL.

Wiebe-Neufeld, Tim and Donna Wiebe-Neufeld. Keeping the garden: a faith response to God's creation. (Generation why Bible studies; 1:7) Newton: Faith & Life, 1996. Pp. 44. MLA.

Wiens, Delbert. Stephen's sermon and the structure of Luke-Acts. North Richland Hills, TX: BIBAL, 1996. Pp. 267. FRE.

Wine, Norman F. The history of Miners Village Mennonite Church 1931-1995: the story of a Mennonite mission in the hills of Cornwall. Lebanon, PA: Author, 1996. Pp. 182. MHL.

Wojtasik, Ted. No strange fire. Scottdale: Herald Press, 1996. Pp. 400. FRE, MHC, MHL, MLA.

Words for worship. Arlene M. Mark, ed. Scottdale: Herald, 1996. Pp. 319. MHL, MLA.

Wright, Susan Kimmel. Dead letters. (Dead-End Road mysteries) Scottdale: Herald, 1996. Pp. 176. MHL.

Yoder, Jacob E. The fire of liberty in their hearts: the diary of Jacob E. Yoder of the Freedmen's Bureau School, Lynchburg, Virginia, 1866-1860. Samuel L. Horst, ed. Richmond: Library of Virginia, 1996. Pp. 192. EMU.

Yoder, John Howard. Jésus-Christ et les apôtres ont encore quelque chose à nous dire: qu'allons-nous faire? (Cahiers de Christ Seul; 1996/1) Montbeliard: Cahiers de Christ Seul, 1996. Pp. 61. MLA.

Yoder, John Howard. When war is unjust: being honest in just-war thinking. Rev. ed. Maryknoll, NY: Orbis Bks., 1996. Pp. 168. FRE, MHL.

Yoder, Wanda M. Ricky and the Hammond cousins. Harrisonburg, VA: Christian Light, 1996. Pp. 169. MHL.

Zehr, Howard. Doing life: reflections of men and women serving life sentences. Intercourse, PA: Good Bks., 1996. Pp. 124. MHL, MLA.

Zook, Don. Summer of 1946 memories. Pitkin, CO: [Author, 1996]. 1 packet. MHL.

Zook, Mollie. De la riqueza a le fe: un viaje repleto de lagrimas. Crockett, KY: Rod & Staff, 1996. Pp. 215. EMU, MHL.

Zook, Mollie. Lenchen: hija de fe. Crockett, KY: Rod & Staff, 1996. Pp. 158. MHL.

1994-1995

About three: a beginning activity workbook for three-year-olds. Topeka, IN: Study Time Publishers, 1995. Pp. 32. MHL.

Abstracts of Lancaster County Pennsylvania wills: vol. 1 1732-1785; vol. 2 1786-1820. Westminster, MD: Family Line Publications, 1995. 2 v. MHL.

The alumni choir of Freeman Junior College and Academy in concert: August 1995 in Pioneer Hall. Sioux Falls: Creative Communications, 1995. 1 compact disc. MLA.

Anderson, C. LeRoy. No longer silent: world-wide memories of the children of World War II:autobiographic essays. Missoula: Pictorial Histories, 1995. Pp. 370. MLA.

Angulo, José Miguel de and Luz Stella Losada. La restauración de todas las cosas: misiología bíblica integral. 2a ed. Ciudad de Guatemala, Guatemala ; Santafé de Bogotá, Colombia: Ediciones SEMILLA-CLARA, 1995. Pp. 295. MHL.

Anywhere with Jesus: MCC Youth Discovery Team-1995; Zambia, Canada and the United States. [Winnipeg]:MCC, 1995. 1 sound disc. MLA.

Aylmer Amish directory, 1995. Aylmer, ON: Pathway, 1995. Pp. 30. MHL.

Bachman, Helen Goertzen. J.H. Goertzen family history, 1869-1994. Newton: Author, 1994. 1 v. MLA.

Barce, Jennifer Wilson. Examining early childhood literacy in cross-cultural contexts: a case study in the transition between Amish home culture and public school. Thesis (Ph.D.)—Indiana Univ., 1994. Pp. 194. EMU, MHL.

Barnhart, Shawn. Eberhart/Everhart ancestry in the United States of America: a comprehensive manual, 1727-1995. Bowie, MD: Heritage Books, 1994. Pp. 148. MHL.

Barnwell Mennonite Church after twenty years, 1973-1993. Steven and Cynthia Brubaker, eds. Barnwell, SC: The Church, 1994. Pp. 99. MHL.

Barr, Philip. Teaching for renewal through an inductive Bible study course on Galatians at Allensville Mennonite Church. Thesis (D.Min.) —Fuller Theological Seminary, 1995. Pp. 248. EMU.

Bauer, David R. Biblical resources for ministry: a bibliography of works in biblical studies. 2nd ed., rev. & enl. Nappanee: Evangel, 1995. Pp. 144. MHL.

Beachy, Betty K. Emanuel Bittinger, 1838-1908, and his descendants. Decorah, IA: Anundsen, 1995. Pp. 149. MHL.

Beachy, William V. and Betty K. Beachy. The descendants of Abraham B. Beachy and Elizabeth Miller of Holmes County, Ohio. Baltimore: Authors, 1995. Pp. 136. MHL.

Beachy, William V. and Betty K. Beachy. "Strong" John Beachy and his descendants. Decorah, IA: Anundsen, 1995. Pp. 211. MHL.

Beers, V. Gilbert. The preschoolers Bible. Wheaton, IL: Victor Books, 1994. Pp. 431. MHL.

Beers, V. Gilbert. A Bíblia da garotada. Campinas, SP: Editora Cristã Unida, 1995. Pp. 432. MHL.

Becker, Palmer. Called to lead: an introduction to small group leadership. Harrisonburg, VA: Mennonite Media Ministries, 1994. 1 video. MLA.

Becker, Palmer. The ministry of membership preparation. Thesis (D. Min.)—Fuller Theological Seminary, 1995. Pp. 200. EMU, MHL.

Bergen, Abe. Youth and faith: testing the boundaries. (Faith development series) Newton: Faith & Life, 1995. Pp. 32. MLA.

Berkey, William Albert and Ruth Berkey Reichley. The Berkey book. 2nd ed. Arlington, VA: R.B. Reichley, 1995. Pp. 992.

MHL.

Biblical theology: problems and perspectives: in honor of J. Christiaan Beker. Steven J. Kraftchick, Charles D. Myers, Jr., Ben C. Ollenburger, eds. Nashville: Abingdon, 1995. Pp. 336. MLA.

Biesecker-Mast, Gerald J. Social movement rhetorics of the Radical Reformation. Thesis (Ph.D.)—Univ. of Pittsburgh, 1995. Pp. 357. MHL.

Bigger steps: an activity book for three-year-olds. Topeka, IN: Study Time Publishers, 1995. Pp. 32. MHL.

Bloomfield, Elizabeth. Waterloo Township through two centuries. Kitchener: Waterloo Historical Society, 1995. Pp. 466. MHL.

Bon Homme County history. Herbert T. Hoover, Carol Goss Hoover, eds. Tyndall, SD: Bon Homme County Historical Society, 1994. Pp. 392. MHL.

Bontrager, Ida B. I must walk. [S.l.]: Ida & Edwin Bontrager, 1994. Pp. 274. MHL.

Bontrager, Miriam. A bowl of memories: a collection of stories and anecdotes of the Levi M. & Ida Schrock family. [Macon, MS]: Compiler, 1995. Pp. 152. MHL.

Brandt, Di. Jerusalem, beloved. Winnipeg: Turnstone, 1995. Pp. 71. FRE, MLA.

Brandywine critters: nature crafts from "a Brandywine Christmas". Donna M. Gormel, Lucinda C. Laird, eds. Intercourse, PA: Good Bks., 1995. Pp. 92. MHL.

Buckwalter, Leoda. The road to Chumba. Nappanee: Evangel, 1994. Pp. 187. MHL.

The butcher, the baker, the candlestick maker: Jan Luyken's mirrors of 17th-century Dutch daily life: an exhibition of drawings and prints at the Emily Lowe Gallery, 17 September-31 October, 1995. Hempstead, NY: Hofstra Museum, 1995. Pp. 262. EMU.

Camerata Trajectina. Souterliedekens: 16th century secular songs and psalm settings from the Netherlands. Castricum: Globe, 1994. 1 compact disc. MHL.

Carson, Nancy and Marianne Wilkat. Surname index 1994. Calgary: Alberta Family Histories Society, 1994. 1 v. MHC.

Chambers, Mary-Lynn. A time for training wheels: family devotions for three to seven year olds. Winnipeg; Hillsboro: Kindred, 1995. Pp. 87. MHL.

Changing roles of women within the Christian church in Canada. Elizabeth Gillan Muir, Marilyn Färdig Whiteley, eds. Toronto: University of Toronto Press, 1995. Pp. 391. MHL.

Chiu, David Kam Tak. Costly worship: a seminar to help members of the Conference of Mennonites in British Columbia to pursue a better worship life. Thesis (D. Min.)—Canadian Theological Seminary, 1995. Pp. 183. EMU, MHL.

Christ seul 1946-1993 index. Jean Hege, ed. Montbéliard: Les Editions Mennonites; Wissembourg: Association Française d'Histoire Anabaptiste Mennonite, 1994. 2 v. EMU, MHL.

Christmas gems. Rosemary Schlabach, Martha Ann Schrock, Martha Ann Chupp, Marilyn Schrock, eds. Arthur, IL: Christmas Gems, 1995. Pp. 189. MHL.

Clifford, Karen. Genealogy and computers for the advanced researcher: pulling it all together. Baltimore: Clearfield, 1995. Pp. 347. MHL.

Clifford, Karen. Genealogy and computers for the complete beginner: the PAF computer program, automated data bases, family history centers, local sources. Rev. ed. Baltimore: Genealogical Pub. Co., 1995. Pp. 282. MHL.

Clifford, Karen. Genealogy and computers for the determined researcher. Rev. & expanded ed. Baltimore: Genealogical Pub. Co., 1995. Pp. 355 + 2 computer discs. MHL.

Cornies, Ingrid. Young adults and faith: expanding the horizons. (Faith development series) Newton: Faith & Life, 1995. Pp. 24. MLA.

CPS smokejumpers, 1943 to 1946: v 3. Roy E. Wenger, ed. Missoula, MT: Wenger, 1995. 1 v. MHL.

Dalke, Norm. The Henry Dalke family: from Molotschna Colony to Aberdeen, Idaho and on. Seattle: Author, [1995?] Pp. 138. MLA.

Dancing at the wall: re-imagining the church. [Minneapolis]: Brethren/Mennonite Council : Church of the Brethren Womaen's Caucus, 1995. Pp. 40. MHL.

Davis, Ken. Wie lebe ich mit meinen Eltern — ohne durchzudrehen. [Asslar, Germany]: Schulte & Gerth, 1995. Pp. 217. MHL.

Davis, Richard Warren. Emigrants, refugees and prisoners (an aid to Mennonite family research). Volume I. Provo, UT: Author, 1995. Pp. 427. MHL, MLA.

Detweiler, Gideon D. Descendants of Gideon B. Detweiler and Fannie F. Miller Detweiler, 1886-1994. Sugarcreek, OH: Carlisle Printing, [1994?]. Pp. 42. MHL.

Detweiler, Gideon D. Descendants of Jacob J. Miller and Katie N. (Detweiler) Miller, 1904-1994. Sugarcreek, OH: Carlisle Printing, [1994?]. Pp. 41. MHL.

Dick, Lorraine M. First steps for kids. Student guide: lessons to help children grow more as Christians. Winnipeg ; Hillsboro: Kindred Productions, 1995. Pp. 36. MHL.

Dick, Lorraine M. First steps for kids. Teacher's guide: lessons to help children grow more as Christians. Winnipeg ; Hillsboro: Kindred Productions, 1995. Pp. 43. MHL.

Diekmannshenke, Hans-Joachim. Die Schlagwörter der Radikalen der Reformationszeit (1520-1536): Spuren utopischen Bewusstseins. New York: P. Lang, 1994. Pp. 430. MHL.

The doctrine of salvation: a study of the plan and purpose of salvation. Ephrata, PA : Eastern Mennonite Publications, 1995. Pp. 77. MHL.

Doerksen, John G. As I remember: the story of my life. Altona, MB: Friesen Printers, 1995. Pp. 209. MHL.

Dollinger, Gerhard. Für drei Pfennig allerhand: Erinnerungen eines Landarztes: fast lauter heitere Geschichten. Stuttgart: Betulius, 1995. Pp. 143. MLA.

Drescher-Lehman, Sandra and Joe Hollinger. Lessons for living: parables/Sermon on the mount: teacher's guide with student reproducible sheets. (Link youth Bible studies) Scottdale: Mennonite Pub. House, 1995. Pp. 72. EMU, MHL.

Driedger, Gerhard. The Werder: the land between the Vistula and the Nogat. Lethbridge, AB: Author, 1995. Pp. 159. MHC.

Driver, John. Contra a corrente: ensaios de eclesiologia radical. Campinas, SP: Editora Cristã Unida, 1994. Pp. 194. EMU, MHL.

Driver, John. Ouça Jesus: um comentário sobre o Sermão de Montanha. Campinas, SP: Editora Cristã Unida, 1995. Pp. 122. EMU, MHL.

Duckwitz, Mireille. Il est vraiment un ami! Lapalud, France: Les Editions Le Phare, 1995. Pp. 48. EMU.

Duckwitz, Mireille. Ils ont trouvé un secret. Lapalud, France: Les Editions Le Phare, 1994. Pp. 48. EMU.

Dueck, Elena R. de. O desenvolvimento de ma nação. (Encontros com Deus; 3) Campinas, SP: Editora Cristã Unida, 1995. Pp. 33. MHL.

Dueck, Elena R. de. Oprimidos, libertados e povo. (Encontros com Deus; 2) Campinas, SP: Editora Cristã Unida, 1995. Pp. 34. MHL.

Dueck, Elena R. de. Princípios, matriarcas e patriarcas. (Encontros com Deus; 1) Campinas, SP: Editora Cristã Unida, 1995. Pp. 33. MHL.

Dueck, Elena R. de. Reis e profetas. (Encontros com Deus; 4) Campinas, SP: Editora Cristã Unida, 1995. Pp. 42. MHL.

Dueck, Elvira. He has qualified us: memories of our parents, Henry and Sara Kornelsen. [S.l.]: privately printed, 1995. Pp. 92. FRE.

Dueck, Gerry. Kids for the world: a guidebook for children's mission resources. 2nd ed. Pasadena, CA: William Carey Library, 1995. Pp. 159. MHL.

Dueck, Helene. Durch Trübsal und Not. Winnipeg: Centre for Mennonite Brethren Studies, 1995. Pp. 241. FRE, MHC, MHL, MLA.

Dueck, John W. Prairie pioneer: Writings and genealogy of John W. Dueck. [Rosenort, MB]: John W. Dueck Book Committee, 1995. Pp. 382. FRE, MHC, MHL, MLA.

Dueck, Paul. Classic childhood songs on the Celtic harp. Leamington, ON: Pauldina Prod, 1995. 1 compact disc. MHL.

Duffin, James M. Guide to the mortgages of the General Loan Office of the Province of Pennsylvania, 1724-1756. (Genealogical Society of Pennsylvania monograph series; 1) [Philadelphia]:

Genealogical Society of Pennsylvania for the Philadelphia Area Consortium of Hereditary and Genealogical Societies, 1995. Pp. 142. MHL.

Duggirala, Ravindranath. Cultural and genetic determinants of lipids and lipoproteins in the Mennonite community. Thesis (Ph. D.)—University of Kansas, 1995. Pp. 177. MHL.

Dull, Keith A. Early families of York County, Pennsylvania, Vol. 1. Westminster, MD: Family Line Publications, 1995. Pp. 132. MHL.

Dyck, Elfrieda and Peter Dyck. Elfrieda and Peter Dyck tell MCC stories: A glad response ; The ship that never arrived. Akron: MCC, 1995. 2 videocassettes. EMU, FRE.

Dyck, Isaak M. Anfangs Jahre der Mennoniten in Mexiko. Cuauhtémoc, MX: Imprenta Colonial, 1995. Pp. 90. MHC.

Dyck, Isaak M. Auswanderung von Canada nach Mexiko: ano 1922. Cuauhtémoc, MX: Imprenta Colonial, 1995. Pp. 120. MHC.

Dyck, Isaak, M. Hinterlassene Schriften vom Ältesten Isaak M. Dyck. Cuauhtémoc, MX: Jakob Klassen Fehr, 1994. Pp. 123. MHC.

Early marriages of Stark County, Ohio, vol. 3: 1856-1870. Alliance, OH: Alliance Genealogical Society, 1995. Pp. 270. MHL.

Ebert, Myrtle V. Wir sind frei! We are free!: a Mennonite experience: from the Ukraine to Canada: Biographies of Jacob and Frieda Friesen. Scarborough, ON: Lochleven, 1995. Pp. 203. FRE, MHC, MHL, MLA.

Eden Mennonite Church centennial cookbook, 1995. Kearney, NE: Morris, 1995. Pp. 182. MLA.

Emigration and settlement patterns of German communities in North America. Eberhard Reichmann, La Vern J. Rippley, Jörg Nagler, eds. Indianapolis: Max Kade German-American Center, 1995. Pp. 380. MLA.

English translation of the Russian 1835 census of the Molotschna villages. [Winnipeg]: Genealogy Committee of the Manitoba Mennonite Historical Society, 1995. 1 v. FRE, MLA.

Enns, Katharine. Harvest of new fields, or, The I.P. Neufeld story. [Inman, KS]: Author, 1995. Pp. 242. MLA.

Epp, Gilbert E. Eppisodes, eppcetera: an autobiography. Abbotsford, BC: Author, 1995. 1 v. MHC.

Die ersten mennonitischen Einwanderer in Paraguay: Einwandererliste 1995. 2. (verb.) Aufl. Abram B. Giesbrecht, ed. Loma Plata: Druckerei Friesen, 1995. Pp. 84. MHL.

Esch, Henry D. Life story of Henry D.: an autobiography. Boots and Merrill Raber, eds. Newton: Graphic Images, 1995. Pp. 127. EMU, MHL.

Ewert, David. Então virá o fim: uma escatologia bíblica. Campinas, SP: Editora Cristã Unida, 1994. Pp. 205. EMU, MHL.

Expanding the circle of caring: ministering to the family members of survivors and perpetrators of sexual abuse. Esther Epp-Tiessen, comp. Akron: MCC U.S. Women's Concerns, [1995?]. Pp. 88. MLA.

Fast, Karl. Orenburg: die letzte mennonitische Ansiedlung in Osteuropa. Winnipeg: Das Bunte Fenster, 1995. Pp. 226. FRE, MHL, MLA.

Fehr, Jacob M. De stuck maschien: Low German poems & stories. [Swift Current, SK: Author, 1994]. Pp. 80. FRE, MHL, MLA.

Flickinger, Anna Grace. 120-year time line of Bethel Mennonite Church, Inman, Kansas, 1875-1995. [Inman, KS: Author, 1995]. 1 v. MLA.

Fogel, Edwin Miller. Beliefs and superstitions of the Pennsylvania Germans. 2nd rev. print. Millersville, PA: Center for Pennsylvania German Studies, Millersville University, 1995. Pp. 242. MHL.

Fogel, Edwin Miller. Proverbs of the Pennsylvania Germans. 2nd rev. ed. Millersville, PA: Center for Pennsylvania German Studies, Millersville University, 1995. Pp. 149. MHL.

Folktales of peace. Akron: MCC, 1995. 1 video. MLA.

Foster, Richard J. Celebração da disciplina. Guia de estudo. Campinas, SP: Editora Cristã Unida, 1995. Pp. 99. MHL.

Free indeed. Akron: MCC, 1995. 1 video. MLA.

Friesen, Delores. O caminho para o casamento cristão: doze lições de aconselhamento para casamento. 2a ed. Campinas, SP: Editora Cristã Unida, 1995. Pp. 90. EMU, MHL.

Friesen, Heinrich J. Memories from my life. [Winnipeg]: H.J. Friesen Family, 1995. Pp. 198. FRE, MHC, MHL, MLA.

Friesen, John W. Pick one: a user-friendly guide to religion. Calgary, AB: Detselig Enterprises, 1995. Pp. 256. MHL.

Friesen, John W. You can't get there from here: the mystique of North American plains Indians culture & philosophy. Dubuque: Kendall/Hunt, 1995. Pp. 147. MHL, MLA.

Friesen, Lauren. Hawk Feather: a play in two acts. Goshen: Author, 1994. Pp. 103. MLA.

Friesen, Lauren. The Platte River trilogy. [Goshen]: Author, 1995. Pp. 98. MLA.

Friesen, Peter. A sheep tale. Ottawa, ON: Centurion Publishing, 1995. Pp. 16. MHL.

Friesen, Theodore E. Altona centennial history tour July 27-28, 1995: Hochstadt - Neubergthal - Fort Dufferin - Post Road - Cairn at Neu-Anlage - Gretna - Old Altona Village - Altona. [Altona, MB: Altona Centennial Committee, 1995]. Pp. 12. MHC.

Froese, John. Rev. Jacob Janzen family celebration: 1904-1995. Laird, SK: Author, 1995. Pp. 95. MHC.

Frost, S. Annie. Robbie's light. Ephrata: Grace, 1994. Pp. 53. MHL.

Funk, Merle J. F. The failure of boosterism: conscience, coercion and the reluctant compliance of the German-Russian communities in Hutchinson County, South Dakota, 1910-1920. Thesis (Ph.D.)—Univ. of Colorado, 1994. Pp. 229. EMU.

Furner, Mark. The "Nicodemites" in Arth, Canton Schwyz, 1430-1698. Thesis (M.A.)—Univ. of Warwick, 1994. Pp. 211. MHL.

Geschichte und Leben der schweitzer Kolonien in dem Vereinigten Staaten von Nord-Amerika = Swiss colonists in 19th century America. Adelrich Steinach, ed. Camden, ME: Picton Press, 1995. Pp. 525. MHL.

Genzinger, Peter George. Mennonite representations of nature in the nineteenth century. Thesis (M.A.)—Univ. of Waterloo, 1995. Pp. 283. EMU, MHL.

Gibbel, Ira W. The descendants of Henry Gibbel. Elverson, PA: Olde Springfield Shoppe, 1995. Pp. 596. MHL.

Giesbrecht, Sharon. Genealogy record of Cornelius V. Giesbrecht, June 20, 1880 - October 15, 1956, and Katharina (Fast) Giesbrecht, September 19, 1883 - March 13, 1966, 1904-1994. [S.l.: Author, 1994]. Pp. 287. MHC.

Gingerich, Orval J. Internationalizing general education: a case study of Eastern Mennonite College and the Global Village Curriculum. Thesis (Ed. D.)—University of Virginia, 1995. Pp. 171. MHL.

Glaudé, Gerard. En toen riep Opa Duvemond: "Leve de VDGA!!!": ondeugende van een dondersteen. Amsterdam: Author, 1995. Pp. 32. EMU.

Glick, Esther Swartzendruber and Carolyn Swartzendruber Nafziger. Descendants of Frederick Swartzendruber, 1825-1895, and Sarah Yoder, 1829-1867. Nappanee: Evangel, 1995. Pp. 544. EMU.

Glimpses of the eastern hemisphere (workbook). LaGrange, IN: Pathway, [1995?]. Pp. 84. MHL.

Gloria in excelsis: 98 Christmas songs in German and English. Rev. [S.l.]: Isaac K. Stoltzfus, 1994. Pp. 65. MHL.

Goertz, Hans-Jürgen. Menno Simons, 1496-1561: eine biographische Skizze. Hamburg: [s.n.], 1995. Pp. 28. EMU.

Goerzen, Alice and Frieda Voth. Cornelius A. Reimer family history. [Goessel: Authors], 1995. Pp. 147. MLA.

Grant, Mary F. and Debbie A. Neiss "Our Heinrich": the ancestry, life, and some descendants of Heinrich/Henry Fox (1818-1898) of Earl and Ephrata Townships, Lancaster County, Pennsylvania. Morgantown, PA: Masthof, 1995. Pp. 168. MHL.

Grove, Myrna J. Asbestos cancer: one man's experience. Hanover, MA: Christopher Publishing House, 1995. Pp. 187. MHL.

Hall, Eddy and Gary Morsch. The lay ministry revolution: how you can join. Grand Rapids: Baker Bks., 1995. Pp. 126. MHL, MLA.

Hallman, William E. Prairies and pampas: Hallman happenings. Gainesville: Clemens L. Hallman, 1994. Pp. 204. MHL.

Harder, Geraldine Gross. Reach out to touch: twenty-five love and peace ballads. North Newton: Author, 1995. Pp. 52. EMU, MHL, MLA.

Harmon, Frances L. For Christ and the church: a biography of Alvin C. Burkholder. Grantham, PA: Brethren in Christ Historical Society, 1995. Pp. 198. MHL.

Hartzler, Betty Graber. Jacob C. & Barbara (Preheim) Stucky family: records & memories, 1995. [Newton: Author], 1995. 1 v. MLA.

Harvey, Reuben. Selected keys that we may open the Bible to study the Old Testament: concerning the birth, building and decay (in part) of the Hebrew nation 4000 to 400 years before Christ our Lord. Mansfield, OH: Author, 1995. Pp. 64. MHL.

Hawkley, Ken. Middle adults and faith: building bridges. (Faith development series) Newton: Faith & Life, 1995. Pp. 24. MLA.

Heatwole, John L. Shenandoah voices: folklore, legends, and traditions of the Valley. Berryville, VA: Rockbridge, 1995. Pp. 147. MHL.

Heisey, John W. Genealogy: helps, hints & hope. Rev. ed. Morgantown, PA: Masthof, 1995. Pp. 147. MHL.

Herr, Theodore W. Genealogical record of Reverend Hans Herr and his direct lineal descendants from his birth A.D. 1639 to the present time containing the names, etc., of 13223 persons. 3rd ed. With corrections and supplemental data by Phillip E. Bedient. Lancaster: Lancaster Mennonite Historical Society, 1994. Pp. 800. MLA.

Hiebert, Carl. Gift of wings: an aerial celebration of Canada. Erin, ON: Boston Mills, 1995. Pp. 180. MHL.

Hiebert, Paul G. and Eloise Hiebert Meneses. Incarnational ministry: planting churches in band, tribal, peasant, and urban societies. Grand Rapids: Baker Books, 1995. Pp. 405. MHL.

Hildebrand, Marjorie. The oak tree: the story of the ancestors and descendants of Peter and Margaretha Wiebe, 1797-1945. Steinbach: Author, 1995. Pp. 85. MHC, MLA.

Hildebrandt, Georg. Erst jetzt Lebe ich. Heidelberg: Author, 1995. Pp. 185. MHC.

The history of Eden Mennonite Church, Chilliwack, British Columbia 1945-1995 : 50th anniversary. Chilliwack, BC: The Church, 1995. Pp. 208. MHC, MHL.

Hincks, Craig W. Living words: a history of Warden Woods Church and Community Centre. Scarborough, ON: The Church, 1995. Pp. 210. MHC.

Hooper, Jeff. Paul Bunyan, the incredible sprout. Music and lyrics by Bob Lucas. West Liberty, OH: Author, 1995. Pp. 41. MLA.

Hoover, Susan Bame. Faith the cow. Elgin, IL: FaithQuest, 1995. 1 v. MHL.

Hostetter, Henry N. Seeking first the kingdom: reflections on my heritage, my ministry, and my beliefs. Nappanee: Evangel, 1995. Pp. 183. MHL.

Hylkema, J. H. Tragiek van een Verkeerde God. Kampen: Kok, 1994. Pp. 128. EMU.

Jackson, Dave and Neta Jackson. Flight of the fugitives. Minneapolis: Bethany House, 1994. Pp. 144. MHL.

Jackson, Dave and Neta Jackson. The runaway's revenge. (Trailblazer books; 18) Minneapolis: Bethany House, 1995. Pp. 141 p. MHL.

Jackson, Dave and Neta Jackson. The thieves of Tyburn Square. (Trailblazer books) Minneapolis: Bethany House, 1994. Pp. 141. MHL.

Jantzen, Albert Leonard. Albert Leonard Jantzen: autobiography: a walk with the Lord. Austin Mathis, ed. Glendale, AZ: Grace Jantzen, 1994. Pp. 165. EMU.

Janzen, Marianne Heinrichs. Heinrichs family tree (1876-1994). [Winnipeg: Author, 1994]. Pp. 289. MHC, MLA.

Johnson, David R. Christian Strenge's Fraktur. East Petersburg, PA: East Petersburg Historical Society, 1995. Pp. 24. EMU, MHL.

Kauffman, Henry J. The colonial silversmith: his techniques & his products. Reprint. Mendham, NJ : Astragal Press, 1995. Pp. 175. MHL.

Kaufman, Frank Llewellyn and Odette J. Mordant Kaufman. Kaufman- Kauffman: the house of Oley. Baltimore: Gateway, 1994. Pp. 1204. EMU.

Kemp, Thomas Jay. International vital records handbook. 3rd ed. Baltimore: Genealogical Publishing Co., 1994. Pp. 417. MLA.

Die Ketzer. Adolf Holl, ed. Hamburg: Hoffmann & Campe, 1994. Pp. 469. MHL.

Kim, Kee Ryun. Das Reich Gottes in der Theologie Thomas Müntzers: eine systematische Untersuchung unter besonderer Berücksichtigung der alternativen Anschauungen Martin Luthers. New York: P. Lang, 1994. Pp. 203. MHL.

Kirchenzucht und Sozialdisziplinierung im frühneuzeitlichen Europa: mit einer Auswahlbibliographie. Heinz Schilling, ed. (Zeitschrift für historische Forschung. Beiheft ; 16) Berlin: Duncker & Humblot, 1994. Pp. 232. MHL.

Kliewer, Karin. Mennonites, a web of migrations that spans the globe. I. The Old Colony Mennonite story; II. The Evangelical Mennonite Conference story; III. The United Mennonite Church story. Leamington, ON: Mennonite Heritage Centre, 1994. 3 v. MHL.

Klippenstein, Bernhard D. Genealogy of Heinrich Klippenstein, 1849- 1977. Updated by S.E. Klippenstein. Manitou, MB: Western Canadian, 1995. Pp. 104. MHL, MLA.

Kopp, Herb. Homosexuality: a compassionate yet firm response. (Mennonite Brethren faith & life pamphlet series) Winnipeg: CMBC, [1994]. Pp. 6. EMU.

Kopp, Herb. New life in Christ: a manual for membership classes in Mennonite Brethren churches. Winnipeg ; Hillsboro: Kindred, 1995. Pp. 84. MHL.

Kreider, Alan. Worship and evangelism in pre-Christendom. Cambridge: Grove Books, 1995. Pp. 45. EMU, MHL.

Kroeker, Abraham F. Shiny shoes on dusty paths: the polishing of grace: as told to Joanne Kroeker. Shippensburg, PA: Treasure House, 1995. Pp. 274. MHL.

Lancaster County map and directory of Groffdale Conference Mennonites 1995. Ephrata, PA: Allen N. Hoover, 1995. Pp. 39. MHL.

Landis, Mary M. Mi libro verde de lo que Dios creó. Crockett, KY: Rod & Staff, 1995. Pp. 32. MHL.

Landis, Mary M. Mi libro azul de lo que Dios creó. Crockett, KY: Rod & Staff, 1995. Pp. 32. MHL.

Landisville Camp Meeting Association. Faithful founders: for his glory. Landisville, PA: Authors, 1995. Pp. 100. MHL.

Lawrence, Suzanne. Called into God's family: the book of Ruth: Bible study. (Household of God; yr. 1) (WM/WMSC study guide; 1995-96) Scottdale: Mennonite Publishing House, 1995. Pp. 64. MLA.

Lederach, John Paul. Building peace: sustainable reconciliation in divided societies. Tokyo: United Nations University, 1995. Pp. 78. MLA.

Lederach, Paul M. Un tercer camino: reflexiones sobre el anabautismo. 1a ed. en Español. Santafé de Bogotá, Colombia ; Ciudad de Guatemala, Guatemala : Ediciones CLARA-SEMILLA, 1995. Pp. 132. MHL.

Lee, Daniel B. Black hats and white bonnets: religious ritual and belief among Weaverland Conference Mennonites. Thesis (Ph. D.)—Syracuse University, 1995. Pp. 167. MHL.

Lehman, Earl Wade. A history of the Choral Society, Bluffton College: one hundredth anniversary of Messiah by Handel. [Bluffton, OH: Author], 1995. Pp. 99. MHL.

Leinbach, Harry. Maple River Church, Old Order Mennonite, Brutus, Michigan, Emmet County. Shippensburg, PA: Paul W. Leinbach ; Barnett, MO: H. Leinbach, 1995. Pp. 45. MHL.

Lewis, Beverly. Night of the fireflies. (SummerHill secrets; 4) Minneapolis: Bethany House, 1995. Pp. 142. MHL.

Life worth living: issues in euthanasia and assisted suicide: brief and study guide. (Council on Faith and Life pamphlet; 2) Winnipeg: Conference of Mennonites in Canada, 1995. Pp. 20. MHL.

Lift every voice & sing. Harrisonburg, VA: Sisters & Brothers, 1995. 1 videocassette. EMU, MLA.

Lind, Lester. The influence of the mystical book: the German theology of Hans Denck and Pilgrim Marpeck. Thesis (M.A.)—Eastern Mennonite Seminary, 1994. Pp. 79. EMU.

Lobe, Tamara Awad. Let's make a garden. Scottdale: Herald, 1995. Pp. 38. MHL.

Loewen, Cornelius B. I remember Riverside & the regions beyond. Morris, MB: Cornie B. Loewen Family, 1995. Pp. 379. FRE, MHC, MHL.

Loewen, Harry. Keine bleibende Stadt: mennonitische Geschichten aus fünf Jahrhunderten. Hamburg: Kümpers Verlag, 1995. Pp. 280. FRE, MLA.

Logsdon, Laurine Mae Palmerton. Layman-Lehman records and lines. Vols. 7 and 8. Spokane, WA: Lauri-Lines, 1994. 2 v. MHL.

Lohrenz, Peter and Therese Lohrenz. Erinnerungen. Lingen, Germany: Author, 1995. Pp. 160. MHC, MLA.

Lutz, Shirley and Ruth M. Graybill. Other side of the pulpit. [S.l.: s.n., 1995?]. Pp. 34. EMU.

Marsh, Christopher W. The family of love in English society, 1550-1630. New York: Cambridge, 1994. Pp. 305. EMU.

Martin, John R. Aventuras en el discipulado: un manual para grupos o individuos. 1a. ed. en Español. Santafé de Bogotá, Colombia ; Ciudad de Guatemala, Guatemala: Ediciones CLARA-SEMILLA, 1995. Pp. 308. MHL.

Mast, Daniel E. 18 rules for teaching a child. Rosenort, MB: PrairieView, [1994]. Pp. 16. MHL.

Mast, Mary. Family history of Daniel J. Stutzman and Mary (Bontrager) Stutzman, 1851-1993. Gordonville, PA: Print Shop, 1994. Pp. 172. MHL, MLA.

Memoirs of Sunnyhaven Children's Home, 1970-1991. Plain City, OH: Farm Villa Foundation, 1995. Pp. 314. MHL.

Menno Simons 500 handbook. Beno Hofman, coordinator. Amsterdam: Menno Simons 500, 1995. Pp. 26. EMU.

Mennonite Environmental Task Force. Report to the joint session of the Mennonite Church General Assembly and General Conference Triennial Assembly, July 24-26, 1995. [Fresno, OH: The Task Force], 1995. Pp. 24. MHL.

Michel, Barbara. Return to Eden. (Eden series) New Wilmington, PA: Son-Rise, 1995. Pp. 237. MHL.

Migration north: Mennonites from Mexico. Winnipeg: MCC Canada, 1995. 1 video. FRE.

Miller, Lewis B. The branded oak. Gordonville, PA: Pequea Publishers, 1995. Pp. 256. MHL.

Miller, Mary Ellen. Family favorites. Pleasantville, TN: Author, 1995. Pp. 94. EMU, MHL.

Miller, Rachel. Favorite recipes from the heart of Amish country. Sugarcreek, OH: Author, 1995. Pp. 219. MHL.

Miller, Sarah Mae. Let us praise him. Book number three. Goshen: Author, 1995. Pp. 64. MHL.

Miller, Wendy. Invitation to presence: a guide to spiritual disciplines. (Pathways in spiritual growth) Nashville: Upper Room Books, 1995. Pp. 143. MHL.

Munro, Ken. Bird in the hand. (Sammy & Brian mystery; 2) Bird-in-Hand, PA: Gaslight, 1995. Pp. 122. MHL.

Munro, Ken. The quilted message. Bird-in-Hand, PA: Gaslight, 1994. Pp. 76. MHL.

Museum Plantin-Moretus. Antwerpen, dissident drukkercentrum: de rol van de Antwerpse drukkers in de godsdienstrijd in Engeland (16de eeuw). Gent: Snoeck-Ducaju & Zoon, 1994. Pp. 187. EMU.

Myers, Sarah E. and Mary Beth Lind. Recipes from the old mill: baking with whole grains. Intercourse, PA: Good Bks., 1995. Pp. 252. MHL.

Neufeld, Chuck. As I am. Newton: Charlesongs, 1995. 1 compact disc. MLA.

Neufeld, Johann Abram. Memoirs of father Johann Abram Neufeld. Frank J. Neufeld, tr. [S.l.: F. J. Neufeld, 1995]. 1 v. MHC.

Neuhauser, John M. A wild ride for Aaron: and other short-short stories. Phillips, WI: Milt's Books, 1995. Pp. 44. MHL.

Non-violence in a violent world. Akron: MCC, 1995. 1 video. MLA.

O that today you would hear God's voice: worship and spirituality resources for Lent 1996. Elkhart: Menn. Bd. of Congregational Ministries ; Newton: Commission on Education, 1996. Pp. 31. EMU, MHL.

Oak Lake Mennonite Church Historical Committee. History of Oak Lake Mennonite Church: including the society, culture and tradition of the Mennonite people. Virden, MB: Empire, 1994. Pp. 182. MHC.

Ohio Amish directory: Holmes County and vicinity. 1996 ed. Sugarcreek, OH: Carlisle Printing, 1995. Pp. 793. EMU, MHL.

Dat Ole Testament. Karl-Emil Schade, tr. 3. Aufl. Neumünster: Wachholtz, 1995. Pp. 936. MHL.

Ollenburger, Ben C. Ebenfeld: history, interpretation, and Mennonite Brethren identity. Hillsboro: Center for Mennonite Brethren Studies, 1994. Pp. 28. MHL, MLA.

Pankratz, Theodora. Living with fringe benefits from here to there. [S.l.: Author, 1995?]. 1 v. MLA.

Peacemaking: healing and hope. (Ekklesia) Harrisonburg, VA: Mennonite Board of Missions, 1995. 1 video + study guide. EMU, MLA.

Penner, Horst, Horst Gerlach, Horst Quiring. Weltweite Bruderschaft: ein mennonitisches Geschichtsbuch. Kirchheimbolanden: GTS-Druck, 1995. Pp. 542. MLA.

Pennsylvania Dutch cook book of fine old recipes. Gettysburg, PA: Fem, Inc., 1995. Pp. 48. MHL.

Pennsylvania Dutch lore: an anthology of Amish folklore. 2nd ed. Boone, NC: Les Troyer, Wordcrafters, [1995]. Pp. 44. EMU, MHL.

Planitz, Asta Christa. Die Liederhandschriften der Russlanddeutschen: Quellensammlung und Untersuchung. Marburg: Elwert, 1995. Pp. 494. MLA.

Pries, Edmund. Anabaptist oath refusal: Basel, Bern and Strasbourg, 1525-1538. Thesis (Ph. D.)—University of Waterloo, 1995. Pp. 332. MHL.

Quellen zur Reformation, 1517-1555. Ruth Kastner, ed. (Ausgewählte Quellen zur deutschen Geschichte der Neuzeit; 16) Darmstadt: Wissenschaftliche Buchgesellschaft, 1994. Pp. 553. MHL.

Rasmusson, Arne. The church as polis: from political theology to theological politics as exemplified by Jürgen Moltmann and Stanley Hauerwas. Rev. ed. Notre Dame: Univ. of Notre Dame, 1995. Pp. 418. MHL.

Recipes from quilters: a book of postcards. Intercourse, PA: Good Bks., 1995. Pp. 64. MHL.

Reed, Anna B. Weaver and Virginia Weaver Martin. History and descendants of the William H. and Lydia G. Weaver family. [Reinholds, PA.]: Share-a-Care Publications, 1995. Pp. 141. MHL.

Reiff, Glenn Austin. Some descendents of Abraham Reiff and Nicholas (Claus) Erb: through the family of Christian Horst Reiff and Annie Erb. Pueblo, CO: Author, [1995]. 1 v. MLA.

Reimer, Earl and Marshall Lawrence. A catalog of plays by Earl Reimer and musicals by Earl Reimer and Marshall Lawrence. Mishawaka, IN: Authors, [1995?]. 1 v. MLA.

Reimer, Paul Peter. The life and times of my grand children's ancestors. [S.l.: Author, 1995]. 1 v. MHC.

Reimer, William and Justus Zeyen. Stille Sein. [S.l.: s.n.], 1994. 1 compact disc. MHL.

Rempel, Herman. Kjenn jie noch Plautdietsch? A Mennonite Low German dictionary. 2nd rev. ed. Rosenort, MB: PrairieView, 1995. Pp. 365. MHC, MHL, MLA.

Rempel, Jakob W. Dolinowka: zur Geschichte eines deutschen Dorfes in Russland, ein kleiner Teil der knapp 500jährigen Geschichte der Deutschen der Religionsrichtung Mennoniten. Meckenheim: Warlich- Druck, 1994. Pp. 87. MHC.

Responsible Christian driving. Ephrata, PA: Eastern Mennonite Publications, 1995. Pp. 12. MHL.

Return to Berry Meadow and other stories of our people. Richard Scheuerman, ed. Lincoln: AHSGR, 1995. Pp. 218. MLA.

Ritter, Robert P. The ancestors & descendants including some of the relations of Deacon Ulrich Steiner and Elizabeth Basinger of Wilmot Township, Waterloo County, 1720-1995. Wingham, ON: Author, 1995. Pp. 212. MHL.

Ropp, Hermen E. By reason of religious training and belief. Harrisonburg, VA: Author, 1995. Pp. 43. EMU.

Roth, Glen A. and Glenn M. Lehman. An instrument of God's grace: the story of Sharing Programs/Brotherly Aid. Morgantown, PA: Masthof, 1995. Pp. 180. MHC, MHL, MLA.

Salaman, Nicholas. Der Garten der Lüste: ein Roman aus der Zeit der Wiedertäufer. Zürich: Diogenes, 1995. Pp. 639. MHL.

Scharf, Claus. Katharina II: Deutschland und die Deutschen. (Veröffentlichungen des Instituts für Europäische Geschichte Mainz, Abteilung Universalgeschichte; Bd. 153) Mainz: P. von Zabern, 1995. Pp. 569. MHL.

Schlabach, LaVern and Dorothy Schlabach. Illinois directory of Amish communities and history of the Arthur community, Ava Illinois community, Pleasant Hills community and Macomb community, 1995. 2nd ed. Tuscola, IL: Authors, 1995. Pp. 372. MHL.

Schmidt, Kimberly Dawn. Transforming tradition: Women's work and the effects of religion and economics in two rural Mennonite communities, 1930-1990. Thesis (Ph.D.)—State University of New York at Binghamton, 1995. Pp. 369. EMU, FRE, MHL.

Schrag, John O. The Christmas apple. Newton: Wordsworth, 1994. Pp. 24. EMU, MLA.

Schultz, Karl V. Life journey vignettes. Castro Valley, CA: Author, 1995. Pp. 73. MLA.

Schützler, Adelheide. Die Amish von Lancaster, Pennsylvania. Lancaster: Schütz-Michel Books, 1995. Pp. 16. MHL.

Schwartz, Roman D. History and records of interment, 1865-1995, Schwartz Cemetery, Berne, Indiana. Berne: Author, [1995?]. Pp. 266. EMU, MHL.

Scribner, Robert W. For the sake of simple folk: popular propaganda for the German Reformation. Oxford: Clarendon, 1994. Pp. 331. MHL, MLA.

Seitz, Ruth Hoover. Amish values: wisdom that works. Harrisburg, PA: RB Books, 1995. Pp. 61. MHL, MLA.

Ein Send-Brieff. Walnut Creek, OH: Michael Leroy Chrisman, 1995. Pp. 108. EMU.

Shenk, David W. and Ervin R. Stutzman. Criando comunidades do reino: modelos Neotestamentários da implantação de igrejas. Campinas, SP: Editora Cristã Unida, 1995. Pp. 194. EMU, MHL.

Sherrick, Catharine. The Sherrick chronicle, 1732-1992: Pennsylvania, Canada, Michigan. Northville, MI: Horton House, 1994. Pp. 193. MHL.

Shirk, John B. 1995 directory of the Old Order Mennonites of Morgan County and Moniteau County, Missouri. Morgantown, PA: Masthof, 1995. Pp. 61. MHL.

Showalter, Janet R. The swinging tree. Dayton, VA: Heritage Inspirations, 1995. Pp. 51. MHL.

Siegrist, Joanne Hess. Hess family genealogy. [Bird-in-Hand, PA: Author], 1995. Pp. 42. MHL.

Smith, Alonna F. The Philadelphia food companion: the finest food shops in greater Philadelphia. Philadelphia: Food Companion Press, 1995. Pp. 174. MHL.

Sommer, Michel and Juan José Romero. Entrée en conflits: enjeux théologiques et perspectives pratiques pour l'église locale. (Cahiers de Christ Seul; 1995/3-4) Montbéliard: Les Cahiers de Christ Seul, 1995. Pp. 98. EMU, FRE, MHL.

Spengler, Lazarus. Lazarus Spengler Schriften: Bd. 1: Schriften der Jahre 1509 bis Juni 1525. (Quellen und Forschungen zur Reformationsgeschichte; Bd. 61) Gütersloh: Gütersloher Verlagshaus, 1995. Pp. 513. EMU, MHL.

Stack your dishes: a celebration of recipes from Conrad Grebel College. Winnipeg: L. Rasmussen Co., 1995. Pp. 126. MHL.

Stories from the beginning: MCC B.C. Russian Mennonite 75th anniversary video. [S.l.]: MCC, 1995. 1 video. FRE.

Strayer, Kerry Louise. Structural change and cultural continuity: the movement toward integration in two Mennonite denominations. Thesis (Ph.D.)—University of Texas at Austin, 1995. Pp. 525. FRE, MHL.

Strite, Anna May. Nature adventures at Grandmother's. Clearspring, MD: Author, 1994. Pp. 20. MHL.

Taste of homemade: Sommerfeld Mennonite Church, Winkler, Manitoba. Winkler, MB: The Church, [1994]. Pp. 230. MHL.

Taylor, Ann Stoltzfus. A demographic and developmental profile of newly-emerging entrepreneurs among married women in the Old-Order Amish society of Lancaster County, Pennsylvania. Thesis (Ed. D.)—Temple University, 1995. Pp. 125. MHL.

Teacher's favorites: song book. Baltic, OH: Susan Hershberger, 1995. Pp. 62. EMU.

The Thomas R. Brendle collection of Pennsylvania German folklore: Vol. 1. C. Richard Beam, ed. [Schaefferstown, PA]: Historic Schaefferstown, 1995. 1 v. MHL.

Thompson, David L. Bible study that works. Rev. Nappanee: Evangel, 1994. Pp. 128. MHL.

Those enterprising Pennsylvania Germans. (Canadian-German folklore; 8) [Kitchener]: Pennsylvania German Folklore Society of Ontario, 1995. Pp. 253. MHL.

Tiessen, Gail, Charity Schellenberg, Laura Stoutenburg. The peace seekers: the story of the Canadian Mennonites from the Reformation to the present. Steinbach, MB: [s.n.], 1995. Pp. 317. MHC.

Toews, Amanda Regehr. One man's journey, 1886-1970: Stories and adventures of John Dyck Regehr and his family. Rosenort, MB: PrairieView, 1995. Pp. 238. FRE.

Troyer, Elizabeth P. Isaac J. Miller family history 1862-1995: descendants of Isaac J. Miller and Sarah Kauffman. Baltic, OH: Author, 1995. Pp. 92. MHL.

Unpartheyisches Gesang-Buch: enthaltend Geistreiche Lieder und Psalmen, zum allgemeinen Gebrauch des wahren Gottesdienstes. 41. Aufl. [Lancaster County, PA]: Verlag von den Amischen Gemeinden in Lancaster County, Pa., 1995. Pp. 79, 512. MHL.

Viehmeyer, L. Allen. An index to hymns and hymn tunes of the Ephrata Cloister, 1730-1766: including all printed and manuscript hymnals and hymnal fragments and representative music manuscripts. [Pa.]: Ephrata Cloister Associates ; Pennsylvania Historical and Museum Commission, 1995. 1 v. MHL.

Vincent, Mark. This God delivers! : Isaiah/Jonah, Ruth: teacher's guide with student reproducible sheets. (Link youth Bible studies) Scottdale: Mennonite Pub. House, 1995. Pp. 71 + 1 packet. MHL.

Vogt, Esther. Song of the prairie. Camp Hill, PA: Horizon Books, 1995. Pp. 187. MHL.

Voolstra, Sjouke. Een gemeente van heiligen: de kenmarken van de ware kerck volgens Menno Simons. Amsterdam: Doopsgezinde Historische Kring, 1994. Pp. 63. EMU.

Waiser, W. A. Park prisoners: the untold story of Western Canada's national parks, 1915-1946. Saskatoon: Fifth House, 1995. Pp. 294. MHL.

Wandel, Johanna. An analysis of stability and change in an Old Order Mennonite farming system in Waterloo Region, Ontario. Thesis (M.A.)—Univ. of Guelph, 1995. Pp. 197. EMU, MHL.

Warkentin, Veralyn Rose. Mary & Martha: a play. Thesis (M.A.)—Univ. of Manitoba, 1994. Pp. 107. EMU.

Wasao, Samson Waga. Fertility differentials among three Amish affiliations in Ohio. Thesis (Ph. D.)—Ohio State University, 1995. Pp. 203 leaves. MHL.

Wedel, Walter J. Descendants of Jacob Wedel. Volume III: through his son Andrew Jacob Wedel and related families. Coolidge, KS: Author, 1994. Pp. 194. MLA.

Weier, John. Steppe: a novel. Saskatoon: Thistledown Press, 1995. 1 v. MHC, MHL.

Weinrich, Mark. Deadly threats. (Light chaser mysteries; 3) Camp Hill, PA: Horizon Books, 1995. Pp. 104. MHL.

Weinrich, Mark. Mysterious signs. (Light chaser mysteries; 2) Camp Hill, PA: Horizon Books, 1994. Pp. 114. MHL.

Weinrich, Mark. Vanishing lights. (Light chaser mysteries; 1) Camp Hill, PA: Horizon Books, 1994. Pp. 90. MHL.

Wengerd, Elizabeth. Introduction to Pennsylvania German. Millersville, PA: Center for Pennsylvania German Studies, 1994. Pp. 60. MHL.

West Coast Mennonite Chamber Choir. A Mennonite tapestry (the Kerulieder Project). [British Columbia]: Infant King Records, 1994. 1 compact disc. MLA.

West Coast Mennonite Chamber Choir. Songs of earth, echoes of heaven. [British Columbia: Infant King Records], 1995. 1 compact disc. MLA.

Wiebe, Elsie. Wall family tree: the descendants of: Gerhard Wall (1840- 1919) and Maria Dueckmann (1844-1914). Calgary: Author, 1994. 1 v. MHC, MLA.

Wiebe, Katie Funk. Older adults and faith: making new maps. (Faith development series) Newton: Faith & Life, 1995. Pp. 24. MLA.

Wiebe-Neufeld, Tim. Mennonites and the environmental debate: an explanation of theological options. Thesis (M.T.S.)—Conrad Grebel College, 1994. Pp. 156. EMU, MHL.

Wiebe, Rudy. River of stone: fictions and memories. Toronto: Vintage Bks., 1995. Pp. 336. FRE, MHC.

Wiebe, Victor G. Saskatchewan Mennonite bibliography, 1962-1995. Saskatoon: Mennonite Historical Society of Saskatchewan, 1995. Pp. 48. EMU, FRE, MHC, MHL, MLA.

Wilhelm, Paul A. Civilian public servants: a report on 210 World War II conscientious objectors. Rev. ed. Washington, DC: NISBCO, 1994. Pp. 85. EMU, MLA.

Wilk, Gerard H. Americans from Germany. Don Heinrich Tolzmann, ed. Reprint ed. Indianapolis: Max Kade German-American Center, Indiana University-Purdue University at Indianapolis ; Indiana German Heritage Society, 1995. Pp. 83. MHL.

Willms, Peter A. Peter Jacob & Katharina (Sudermann) Willms: their ancestors, lives and descendants. Elverson, PA: Olde Springfield Shoppe, 1995. Pp. 69. MHL.

Wisdom for the journey: collected from the sages along the path. Karl V. Schultz, comp. Castro Valley, CA: Compiler, 1995. Pp. 63. MLA.

Worship anthology 1995. Winnipeg: Resources Commission, Conference of Mennonites in Canada, 1995. 2 v. MHC.

Wright, F. Edward. Abstracts of York County, Pennsylvania wills, 1749-1819. Westminster, MD: Family Line Publications, 1995. Pp. 40. MHL.

Wright, F. Edward. Early church records of Dauphin County, Pennsylvania. Westminster, MD: Family Line Publications, 1995. Pp. 140. MHL.

Wright, F. Edward. Early church records of Lebanon County, Pennsylvania. Westminster, MD: Family Line Publications, 1995. Pp. 511. MHL.

The year of jubilee: celebrating 50 years, 1945-1995: Mennonite Brethren Collegiate Institute, 1945-1995. Irvin J. Kroeker, ed. Winnipeg: Anniversary Committee, Mennonite Brethren Collegiate Institute, 1995. Pp. 192. MHL.

Yoder, Christian T. Yoder history, 1700-1970: and family record of Abraham A. Yoder and Lydia Miller, 1871-1993. Rexford, MT: Author, 1995. Pp. 344. MHL.

Yoder Neufeld, Rebecca. El Reino de los cielos es semejante a—: una relectura de las parábolas del Reino. Santafé de Bogotá, Colombia ; Ciudad de Guatemala, Guatemala : Ediciones CLARA-SEMILLA, 1995. Pp. 100. MHL.

Zercher, Ray M. To have a home: the centennial history of Messiah Village. Mechanicsburg, PA: Messiah Village, 1995. Pp. 560. EMU, MHL.

Zook, Douglas R. Social studies, teaching and Mennonites: an interesting alliance. Thesis (M.Ed.)—Univ. of Alberta, 1995. Pp. 153. EMU, MHL.

Zur Mühlen, Karl-Heinz. Reformatorisches Profil: Studien zum Weg Martin Luthers und der Reformation. Göttingen: Vandenhoeck & Ruprecht, 1995. Pp. 408. MHL.

Mennonite Life

An Illustrated Quarterly Devoted to Mennonite History and Culture
ISSN 0025-9365

Founding editor

Cornelius Krahn 1946-1971

Managing editor

John D. Thiesen

Editorial assistant

Barbara A. Thiesen

Editors:

History: James C. Juhnke, Mary Sprunger
Theology and religion: Lois Barrett, Duane Friesen
Arts: Raylene Hinz-Penner, Carla Reimer
Current issues: Brad Born, Rich Preheim

Graphic Design:

Denise Brueggeman-Siemens, Mennonite Press, Newton, Kansas
Printing by Mennonite Press, Newton, Kansas

e-mail

mennonite-life@bethelks.edu

Mennonite Life

is a self-supporting, non-profit publication, and appears each March, June, September, and December.

Subscription rates:

1 year - $18.00; 2 years - $27.00. Foreign: 1 year - $21.00; 2 years - $30.00.
Single copies: $4.00.

Editorial Correspondence should be directed to Mennonite Life, Bethel College, 300 East 27th Street, North Newton, KS 67117-0531 or to our e-mail address.

Change of address

Change of address notification should be sent to Mennonite Life, Bethel College, 300 East 27th Street, North Newton, KS 67117-0531.

Postmaster

Periodical postage paid at North Newton, Kansas 67117. Please send change of address to Mennonite Life, Bethel College, 300 East 27th Street, North Newton, KS 67117-0531.

Abstracted and indexed in Religion Index One: Periodicals, Historical Abstracts, and America: History and Life.

Instructions for authors

Mennonite Life is aimed at a literate audience interested in Mennonite history and culture, not solely at the academic. Prospective authors should inquire as to the suitability of potential articles before submission. Articles must be original and offered exclusively to Mennonite Life. The author is responsible for obtaining written permissions needed for both quotations and illustrations used. Please attach to submitted articles a brief biographical sketch of the author. Photographs and illustrations for articles should be supplied as black and white glossies whenever possible, which the publisher will return. The author is responsible both for the cost of illustrations and for obtaining permission to publish, and for forwarding a copy of such authorization to Mennonite Life. In seeking permissions, the author should mention that Mennonite Life is not-for-profit.

BETHEL COLLEGE

300 East 27th Street
North Newton, KS 67114-0531